Mearl Heikes, East Berlin R. 1, secretary-treasurer of the Latimore Twp. board of supervisors, was elected to his fourth term as president of the Township Supervisors and Township Auditors, Assessors and Tax Collectors Association of Adams County Wednesday afternoon at the 45th annual convention of the group at the courthouse.

Other officers re-elected were: Clyde W. Hall, Orrtanna R. 1, chairman of the Franklin Twp. board of supervisors, vice president; Ervin J. Baker, East Berlin R. 2, secretary of the Hamilton Twp. board, secretary, and Clyde A. McCauslin, Aspers R. D., secretary-treasurer of the Menallen Twp. board, treasurer.

21 RESOLUTIONS

Twenty-one resolutions were adopted by the group. They asked an amendment to the state constitution to permit increases in the borrowing capacity of the townships by vote of their residents; asked special financial aid from the state for bridge construction; condemned, as they have for many years, the annexation laws which permit towns and cities to take over land of the townships; asked the state to designate the shortest available public highway as official detours when state highways are closed; asked that the state gas tax subsidy be allocated on a basis of one-third population, one-third mileage and one-third area.

Opposed legislative proposals which would permit the State Health Department to "invade rights of local government"; opposed centralization of tax collection; asked authority to repair or replace township bridges having a span of 25 feet or less without first obtaining consent of the state Department of Forests and Waters; asked state permission to increase the state township supervisors association dues; asked an increase to $250 of the amount that may be expended for county conventions.

Asked that no annexation of township land to a borough or city be permitted until the townships have been paid costs of improvements in the annexed areas; asked that the School Reorganization Law of 1961, which was described as a "flagrant invasion of the right of home rule," be repealed; opposed the state's taking over local roads as state highways under bills known as Omnibus Road Bills; opposed establishment of a federal Department of Urban Affairs; opposed the "Minimum Wage" provision of the law pertaining to public construction; opposed "any legislation that will provide for a Constitutional Convention without prior referendum"

GAS REFUNDS ANNOUNCED

Refund of an additional $1.-$200,000 to some 250,000 gas customers has been announced by Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania, Inc.

A temporary rate reduction of about a cent and half per thousand cubic feet will be effective during the period from Dec. 4, 1962 through Dec. 3, 1962. It will amount to about 90 cents for the year to a nonheating customer and about $3.60 for a typical heating customer.

The latest cut, plus six others announced in the last 18 months, results in an aggregate of $4.4 million dollars that Columbia Gas will pass on to Pennsylvania customers as the result of refunds made to the company by pipeline suppliers.

Net effect of the December 4 reduction and four others still in effect is to reduce current gas prices below rates established in November, 1959.

Columbia officials said the series of rate reductions result from effective opposition carried before the Federal Power Commission in Washington by the company, the state Public Utility Commission and the City of Pittsburgh, all protesting higher pipeline gas rates.

Local Stores Well-Stocked With Gifts For Every Man

Madame need not be the only member of the family to be steeped in luxury come Christmas morn! Her spouse will be equally decked out if the family gets going on his Christmas list.

A check of men's stores in Gettysburg reveal many choice items to renew his own faith in his position as "master of the house!" For instance, if he enjoys his role as the best-dressed man he'll want at least one reversible velvet and silk print vest when he goes out with the boys. He could conceivably do justice to a completely casual one in wool or corduroy. They run from $5.95 to $10.95.

And while we're paying tribute to the fellow who pays the bills, why not add a pair of house slippers and a lounging robe at $3.95 and $12.95 respectively?

TO REFINANCE SCHOOL BONDS AT NEW OXFORD

The school directors of the New Oxford Area Merged Board learned from the school authority board Wednesday evening at a meeting of the executive committee of the school board that the authority is working on refinancing of the school district's bonded debt similar to that recently accomplished by the Berks Springs Jointure with considerable savings.

The school directors instructed their supervising principal, Charles Hash, to write the state Council of Education opposing the establishment of Bonneville as an independent school district. The Bonneville borough council has asked the state Council of Education to create a Bonneville School District. Some time ago the County Board of School Directors recommended that the Bonneville request be tabled by the state council.

HEARING DEC. 11

The New Oxford letter will be sent to the state Council of Education before its scheduled December 11 hearing on the Bonneville request. The hearing is set for 9:30 a.m. at Harrisburg. The New Oxford directors indicated they are opposing the Bonneville request because it is not in line with the current trend toward larger school districts, because of the operation of Act 561 in the county and because of financial complications involved in the fact that parts of Bonneville borough have bond obligations to the Littlestown and New Oxford Area School Districts.

The board's executive committee voted to request the assignment of a special education teacher to the New Oxford High School by next fall, noting that New Oxford is currently the only high school in the county without a special education teacher.

The directors accepted the resignation of George Weaver as a teacher in the high school for reasons of health, effective immediately.

MAY BUILD SIDEWALK

Mr. Hash reported the high school baseball field is in "excellent condition" and will be available for use in the spring.

The directors voted to ask the borough for a grade on Berlin Ave. in connection with a proposal to construct sidewalk along school property where elementary children now have to walk on the roadway to reach school.

The elementary principal, Glenn Shupp, reported intramural basketball is being conducted in the grades for boys and girls. Bills totaling $42,804 were ordered paid. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $59,839.

President Glenn Haar presided at the meeting when December 26 was set as the next meeting date for the merged board with election of a president and vice president as one item on the agenda.

Miss Leslie Noyes, College Grad, Tells Of Experience In Peace Corps In West Pakistan

Miss Leslie Noyes, of Stratford, Conn., who graduated from Gettysburg College as a psychology major last June, is now serving with the American Peace Corps in Lahore, West Pakistan. She was asked by The Gettysburg Times to tell of her experiences in this unusual peace effort. Her first article follows in full:

As you know, I trained for this project at the University of Minnesota for 10 weeks last summer with 80 other students. Training included 60 hours a week of classes — in Panjabi, Islam, the cultural heritage and traditions of Pakistan, community development techniques, international affairs, U. S. foreign policy and ideology, communism, first aid and personal health, physical fitness. Training was rigorous 75 per cent of us "made it through." After 10 days of home leave we left New York and 30 hours later arrived in Karachi — tired, dirty and excited. Twenty-

WORLD WAR I VETERANS TO HOLD ELECTION

Adams County veterans of World War I who are members of the newly-organized branch of the national organization of World War I Veterans, Inc., will elect permanent officers Monday evening at the American Legion Home, Baltimore St. Associate Judge Clarence Deardorff, McKnightstown, acting barracks commander, will preside.

Efforts to organize local veterans began last July, according to Frank Merriken, R. 1, who has attempted to contact an estimated 400 World War I county veterans who are eligible for membership. The national organization has a total membership of slightly more than 225,000 veterans and 90,000 women are members of the national auxiliary.

The purpose of the organization is to promote benefits for veterans of the First World War who were not eligible to participate in succeeding wars that provide veteran benefits under the GI Bill of Rights. It also proposes to provide social benefits to the remaining veterans and their families.

Legislation introduced in Washington since February, 1961, includes a bill to provide a pension of $102.36 to veterans who served at least 90 days in the First World War and whose present income does not exceed $2,400. A veteran with dependents would receive the pension if his income is less than $3,600. Report Cuba Is Cleared Of Red Offensive Weapons Within The Next Few Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Russian ship carrying about 15 IL28 bombers has been sighted outward bound from Cuba, it was learned today. This brings to at least 18 the number of the nuclear-capable bombers the Russians have withdrawn from Cuba on the demand of the United States.

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union is removing its jet bombers from Cuba at a pace that could have all the nuclear-capable planes off the island within days, informed sources report. It appears likely that the U.S.-Soviet diplomatic wrangles over Cuba will fade with the removal of the last of the Soviet "offensive weapons."

Informants said the Soviets have taken a hard stand in New York negotiations against forcing Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to accept international inspection which President Kennedy seeks to make certain Cuba stays free of atomic weapons.

YOUTH ADMITS THEFTS FROM FATHER'S HOME

Charles R. Shafer, 19, Gettysburg R. 3, Wednesday entered a plea of guilty before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder to a charge of larceny brought against him by his father, William Shafer, Gettysburg R. 3.

The youth admitted taking a diamond ring valued at $250, a cameo ring valued at $100, a wrist watch valued at $25 and two other rings with a total value of $15 from his parents' home while visiting there on furlough from Fort Belvoir.

The charge had originally been brought against the younger Shafer and a 17-year-old fellow serviceman who had visited the Shafer home here with the younger Shafer.

SOLDIER CLEARED

Investigation at Fort Belvoir had disclosed a jacket in the 17-year-old soldier's locker containing two of the articles allegedly stolen from the Shafer home.

When Shafer explained that the other soldier had the jacket only because he had borrowed it from Shafer and knew nothing about the theft, and when a lie detector test given at Fort Belvoir showed the younger soldier was truthful in his contention he knew nothing of the larceny, the charges against him were dismissed.

After his plea before the justice, Shafer was returned to the county jail in lieu of bail to face sentence by the court on the charge. Shafer has been in the jail here since November 28.

HIGHWAY'S SNOW CREWS GO TO WORK; UP TO 6 IN.

State highway crews this afternoon were busy throughout the county pushing snow off highways and cinderling at needed spots after a morning that found traffic tied up at intervals on the Sunshine Trail and Mt. Newman, when snowfall turned to ice on the highways.

Highways Superintendent Clyde R. Garber said the first crews went into operation at 9:30 this morning on the Lincoln Highway west of here and on the Sunshine Trail. By 12:30 this afternoon accumulations of up to six inches in depth were reported from the Sunshine Trail, Mt. Newman and Greenstone.

Garber said a total of 31 trucks with snow plows, eight graders and eight caretakers with cinderling trucks was employed during the morning.

SOME ROADS ICY

The work began in the western part of the county and moved eastward as the storm advanced. By noon, plows were in operation throughout most of the county.

While the weather forecast promised only "snow flurries" were to be expected, Garber and his crews began to prepare for a heavier snow when they heard reports coming from Fulton County — whose highways crews are on the same radio frequency as the communications system of the local highways department.

When the men arrived at work in Adams County this morning they began to hear reports from Fulton of a storm increasing in intensity and they braced for its arrival here. When at 9:15 o'clock caretakers in the western part of the county notified of the storm's arrival, the local highway crews were ready to begin operations.

WESTERN PA. HIT

The worst situation occurred between 10 and 11 o'clock when the slush turned to an icy film on the mountain roads and cars and trucks skidded, blocking the highways. By noon, however, the temperature had apparently moderated by a degree or so and the icy condition had disappeared.

HIGH EX-NAZI MAY BE NABBED SOON IN CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The arrest of a higher ex-Nazi on war crimes charges may follow the detention here of a former Nazi colonel accused of ordering the gassing of 90,000 Jews in World War II.

Patrick Weichman, head of the international police organization Interpol in Chile, said Wednesday night "an even higher Nazi war criminal" was believed to be in this country and his arrest may follow soon.

He made the statement after former Col. Walter Herman Julius Rauff appeared before the Supreme Court and declared his innocence of the war crimes for which West Germany is seeking his extradition.

NAME WITHHELD

Weichman refused to name the second man whose arrest is expected.

Last March, Martin Bormann, Adolf Hitler's deputy party chief, was reported located in Chile, but the suspect turned out to be another man. Bormann was reported to have met death in attempting to escape from Berlin in 1945 and was declared legally dead eight years ago by a West German court. But rumors that he is alive keep cropping up.

Rauff was an office colleague of Adolf Eichmann who was executed in Israel last May 31 for complicity in the death of six million Jews. Rauff was arrested in Punta Arenas, Chile's southernmost city, on Tuesday.

VETERAN FOILS BANK ROBBERY

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Robert Dischler was not about to let two bank robbers get away with $1,600 the 24-year-old Air Force veteran had just deposited.

When two armed robbers entered the Bayway branch of the National State Bank of Elizabeth Wednesday, six customers and 12 bank employees looked on stunned and unmoving as one of the gunmen passed from teller to teller, stuffing $52,000 into a satchel.

Dischler swung into action.

He jumped the bandit with the loot and wrestled the gun from him. At close range, Dischler fired a shot and the robber doubled up clutching at his stomach.

The second gunman advanced, spraying bullets. Dischler returned the fire until both robbers fled.

"I'd do it all again if I had to," Dischler said. "I was worried about a $1,600 deposit I had just made."

The deposit represented receipts from the gas station Dischler operates.

The fleeing bandits dropped the satchel, spilling hundreds of bills on the floor.

LONDON PAPER RAPS ACHESON

LONDON (AP)—The conservative Daily Sketch used nearly four of its tabloid pages today to rebuke Dean Acheson for saying Britain is a spent force as a world power.

The Sketch described the remarks of the former U.S. secretary of state as "an astonishing attack" from a man who advises President Kennedy.

In a speech Wednesday at West Point, N.Y., Acheson said Britain "has lost an empire and has not yet found a role."

He said Britain was attempting to play a separate power role—"that is a role apart from Europe, a role based on a 'special relationship' with the United States, a role based on being the head of a Commonwealth. This role is about played out."

USED 8 PIECES

The Sketch marshaled statements from public figures declaring Acheson was talking through his hat. It devoted seven articles, including one editorial, to the subject.

In one article the Sketch said Acheson probably spoke as he did in an attempt "to push along two bedrock aspects of Washington policy."

It said these were: "1. to keep the ultimate say on the use of nuclear weapons firmly in American hands, 2. to press the European countries into a major step in their conventional forces."

Havana Says Ship Fired On Province

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—"A big ship coming from the north" shelled Las Villas Province on the northeastern coast of Cuba Tuesday night, Havana Radio reported today.

The broadcast, monitored here, said the ship was manned by a Cuban counter-revolutionary crew. It said cannon and machine guns were fired upon San Francisco beach, about 18 miles from the city of Cabaen.

The broadcast said apparently there were no dead or wounded as a result of the attacks. It described the aggressors as pirates and said they had refuge in the United States.

It was Havana radio's first mention of the alleged attack.

Cuban exile sources in New York said the attack was a joint operation by two organizations of anti-Castro exiles, Alpha 66 and the Escambray National Front.

Khrushchev, Tito Discuss Alliance

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Yugoslav President Tito began formal conferences in the Kremlin today, presumably to weld a common front against the propaganda onslaught from Communist China.

Peking has been using Tito as its whipping boy in its ideological battle with Moscow, attacking the Yugoslav leader and, by indirection, Khrushchev.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Tito and Khrushchev discussed "questions related to the present international situation" as well as "questions pertaining to the further development of fraternal Soviet-Yugoslav" relations.

Tass described the discussion as a "frank and friendly exchange of opinion."

counted at such a rate that complete removal should be finished in a matter of days—perhaps by the end of this week. Soviet Premier Khrushchev promised to have them out by Dec. 20.

MOVE MANY BOMBERS

The Soviets were said to have informed the United States they are withdrawing more than 40 bombers. The U.S. sources declined to give the exact figure the Soviets mentioned, but said the number exceeded previous U.S. estimates.

American experts figured early in the Cuban crisis that about two dozen IL28s were in Cuba. They later raised the count to "more than 30."

The Russian statement giving a larger number than U.S. intelligence estimates was regarded in Washington as additional evidence the Soviets intend to carry out Khrushchev's pledge to remove the planes.

Administration officials have said there is no evidence the Soviets are hiding some missiles or bombers in Cuba. If such weapons do remain, these authorities say, they could be detected before they got in position to strike.

Transit Strike Perils Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Union and company representatives met Wednesday with federal and state mediators in an effort to head off a threatened transit strike in Pittsburgh and then recessed the talks overnight.

The operators now earn $2.83 an hour. They are seeking 17-cent-an-hour raise, spread over two years.

507,000 MORE JOBLESS LAST MONTH IN U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Labor said today it is investigating why 150,000 extra teen-agers suddenly turned up as unemployed in November to throw the nation's job picture out of kilter.

The increase among job-hunting teens aggravated an expected increase in unemployment to boost the national idle rate from 5.5 per cent in October to 5.8 per cent in November, the 1962 high.

One explanation may be that the November count came toward the end of the month and perhaps caught some of the seasonal unemployment rise usual in December when many youngsters, as well as adults, look for holiday jobs.

UP 507,000

The over-all figures showed unemployment increased by 507,000 to 3.8 million. Employment declined by about 912,000 but showed a record for the month at nearly 68 million.

The unemployment increase was somewhat higher than expected because of the teen-agers. Most of the other additional unemployment had been anticipated because of reduced outdoor activity due to colder weather, principally in farming. Nearly 400,000 withdrew from the labor force.

CONDITIONS NOT WORSE

Seymour Wolfbein, Labor Department manpower director, said the new job figures do not reflect worsening economic conditions. He conceded that employment is not rising fast enough to absorb unemployment.

Compared with a year earlier employment in November was up by 630,000 and unemployment was down by less than 200,000.

Wolfbein said the labor department is investigating to determine whether the increased teenage unemployment indicates more students are quitting school, or merely that many are seeking after-class work.

cruises and tours, including steamship and rail, also domestic and to all parts of the world.

Miller explained that the new air, steamship, rail and cruise packages are being offered through the AAA Travel Agency as an expanding service of the AAA Gettysburg Motor Club.

"The expanding service," he pointed out, "coincides with the observance of the 60th anniversary of the American Automobile Association this year, along with another birthday commemorating 35 years of service to the world traveler."

He explained that it was in 1927 when the AAA made its first move to ease motoring abroad, and a growing demand for additional services such as hotel reservations, ship accommodations for the traveler and his car, and car rentals abroad, finally resulted in establishment of the AAA International Travel Department in New York City in 1945.

of the people"; asked permission for assessment and collection of interim taxes by permitting second class townships add to tax duplicates new construction and additions; asked a change in the state laws requiring registration of delegates for the state township supervisors convention 30 days prior to convention, "which makes it practically impossible for newly elected supervisors to be delegates"; asked that 20 per cent of the first cent of the 1961 gas tax increase be paid to Pennsylvania municipalities and townships; asked that the proposed state planning bill be submitted to the joint state government commission for study before it goes to the legislature and thanked the Adams County commissioners for county aid.

THOMSON SPEAKS

A principal speaker Wednesday afternoon was H. A. "Cappy" Thomson, making his 43rd appearance at the annual supervisors' convention here. Thomson, now in his 70's, retired as secretary of the state Township Supervisors' Association last year, noted that since he had spoken here every year since 1919 he was "happy" to attend the Adams County convention. He said it was one of the few he attended this year and that he "hopes to be back again next year."

Thomson's theme, the same one that he has used for a half century, was basically "keep government local and make it good."

He noted that government "can be kept local only if it is good."

SET UP ZONING

He stressed that townships should set up zoning "before you need it, because after you need it, it's too late." He opposed zoning on a county-wide basis but held that a county planning committee would be helpful to the townships in technical problems "but the townships should do the actual zoning."

He urged that township officials abide by the laws. He told the auditors that "you can't conduct a township audit in one day. For example you just can't accept an expenditure even though it is legal and necessary. You have to check the minutes of the township supervisors to see whether they actually voted to expend this money. Even though it is the best thing in the world, no one supervisor has a right to spend any public funds unless it's there in the minutes as approved by the board. And audit your township tax collector's books and audit the justices of the peace to see whether the township has all the fines that should be coming to it. The law gives you 20 days to do it and directs that you be paid $10 a day to do it. Be sticklers for detail. The law tells you when to hold your first meeting. Hold it at that time or everything you do afterward is illegal. And the law says that when you go to audit the books a notice must be put up at the place 24 hours previously. See that the notice is there, or you can be in trouble. There are efforts being made to do away with the auditors and replace them with certified public accountants. CPA's certainly won't do the job for the money paid the auditors. To keep home rule do a good job and don't give an excuse to those who want to do away with you."

SPAN INSURANCE

He asked the supervisors whether they have insurance on the bridges under township control. He then noted that he doubted if insurance agents know they can sell insurance on bridges but held that it would be a wise move for supervisors to have such insurance since state law provides that they can be held financially accountable for any act "or failure to act" on their part. They could, he said, be surcharged for a bridge if it was swept away.

State workers must pay local taxes he held "and, if you can't collect, notify the head of his department. They'll see that he pays."

One township official said that two junk yards have been established in his township. Thompson told him, "You can't stop them without zoning and you can't put in zoning to stop them after they have started. But you can license and regulate them."

"LEGAL PICKING"

He said the "compulsory wage law" is "a legal picking of the pocket of the taxpayers of Pennsylvania." He said a comparison had been made of the cost of construction this year compared to the prior year before the state passed a law that for all public construction certain minimum wages must be paid. He said the change had "cost in one year $100,000,000 to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania."

He opposed a constitutional convention to change the state's constitution "because it holds a threat of all of us. You can get the voter to read one constitutional change at a time and vote intelligently on it. But I don't know anyone who would read an entire constitution and be able to vote intelligently on it."

Milton W. DeLancey, state secretary of the Supervisors Association spoke on insurance for township officials and employees.

Sheriff's Network Reaches Mississippi

The Quick Call center here is learning that the sheriff's radio network can, under proper atmospheric conditions, provide information about sheriffs all over eastern U. S. Last week the local station talked with a Florida sheriff.

Wednesday a signal came in strong concerning a sheriff's meeting, details of prisoner exchanges, etc., with the operators having southern accents. The local operators heard the station talk to the sheriff's network in St. Louis, Mo., and heard the response by that station but did not catch the "home town" of the station providing the strongest signal received here.

Eventually Quick Call Operator Donald Jacobs "called" the station by its call letters and found the transmission was coming from Jackson, Miss. The Mississippians had been hearing Gettysburg just as strong as their signal had been heard here and had hoped to make contact.

After talking to the Jackson station, Jacobs heard one of the deputy sheriff's with a car radio call Jackson to ask "Who was that you were talking with?" When informed, he commented: "Holy smoke."

LONDON (AP) — A dense lethal smog settled down on London again tonight, with the death toll already 67 and another 738 victims of the sulphurous fumes in city hospitals.

The choking pall thickened with the early darkness for the fourth consecutive night. A government weather bureau spokesman said: "It's a repeat performance of the previous nights—just as intense and thickening at the same time. The rest of the country is now comparatively clear, but there is no relief in sight for London and the Lower Thames River areas until tomorrow, at the earliest."

7 Inches Of Snow Falls On Maryland; Tides Rise Three Feet Above Normal

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nature took a one-two punch at Maryland today, dumping up to seven inches of snow on western Maryland and sending tides up to three feet above normal against both shores of Chesapeake Bay.

The Coast Guard said the Maryland-Delaware Atlantic Coast had not yet been affected. But the Weather Bureau said the ocean was at low tide and high tide in the afternoon would bring tides up to two feet above normal there, too.

About a foot of water was reported on the roads in the Crapo-Crocheron area of Dorchester County on the Eastern Shore. Two elementary schools, Crapo and Hooper's Island, were closed. Royal Oak in Talbot County also reported an unusually high tide. Water also was abnormally high at Cambridge.

HITS SMALL FISHING

Smith Island, an isolated island off the Somerset County mainland, reported tides three to four feet above normal.

Generally, the high tides were expected to affect small fishing communities strung out along bay tributaries in the tidewater counties of Dorchester, Queen Annes, Kent, Wicomico and Somerset.

The Coast Guard at Ocean City, Md., Chincoteague, Va., and near Rehoboth Beach, Del., said there were no unusually high Atlantic tides from Rehoboth Beach south to Cape Charles, Va.

Herbert Alkire, chief meteorologist at the Baltimore Weather Bureau, said strong overnight winds from the southeast and east pushed the water into the bay, causing the high tides.

WIND TO SHIFT

Alkire said the Atlantic storm which has been southeast of the area for several days already had been pushing the water in that direction. He said the wind should shift to the west soon, lessening the push of the water against the bay shores.

Garrett County, "Maryland's Icebox" on the western tip of the state, bore the brunt of the snowfall.

It began snowing there about 10

ABBOTTSTOWN — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Engle and Mrs. Estella Altland, York, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Slothour. Travis Lighty shot a spike buck weighing 115 pounds Monday morning at 8 o'clock near Mt. Holly Springs; Bob Smith also shot a buck early Monday morning.

The annual Christmas banquet for the Ladies Auxiliary of the Abbottstown Fire Company will be held at the Hampton Fire Company at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. All who plan to attend are asked to make reservations with Mrs. Faber Wildasin this week.

p.m. Wednesday and by midnight there was three inches on the ground throughout the county. By morning, the depth ranged from six to seven inches and it was still snowing.

Road crews were out early, however, and all Garrett County's main roads had been plowed by 9 a.m. The temperature was 27 degrees.

The maximum fall of seven inches was in the Oakland area. No major accidents were reported because of the snow.

The snowfall tapered off toward the east and in Frederick was mixed with rain and melted as soon as it hit the ground.

Frostburg had four inches of snow. There was about an inch of wet snow in Cumberland.

WINTER WINDS SPREAD SNOW, RAIN TO EAST

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry weather, with strong winds, snow and cold rain, spread across wide areas from the Rockies into the Ohio Valley today. Cold air and light snow extended southward into Tennessee and northern Georgia.

The cold air mass had not reached the Atlantic seaboard but rain or showers dampened Florida and most coastal areas from South Carolina to Maine. The Atlantic storm moved northeastward and caused rough seas along the New England coast. Rain fell inland across New England.

Cold northwesterly winds carried snow from the Upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes across the Ohio Valley to the mountains of North Carolina and the Virginia highlands. Snow flurries peppered Atlanta, where the mercury dropped to 30 degrees.

Six inches of snow was on the ground in Akron, Ohio, with five inches during a six-hour period Wednesday night. Three inches fell in Youngstown, Ohio. Highways were snow packed in northeast Missouri between St. Louis and Hannibal. Bowling Green, Mo., reported nearly two inches of snow with similar amounts in parts of northern Indiana.

Fog was reported in the Middle and North Atlantic Coast states, the Lower Great Lakes region and in the North Central Pacific Coast states.

The coldest weather was from Minnesota and North Dakota southward into eastern Nebraska and western Iowa, with temperatures mostly in the teens. A low of 9 above was reported in Devils Lake, N.D.

Schools Gather 9 Tons of Scrap:
Gettysburg public school pupils gathered more than nine tons of scrap metal, rubber and rags during the school salvage drive which ended last week, Superintendent L. C. Keefeaver disclosed today.

The 18,775 pounds of scrap sold for a total of $107.76. The money received from the sale of scrap gathered by the high school students will be used to buy materials to fill kits for soldiers. Grade schools have not announced the use to which their money will be put.

Shoe Workers To Be Trained:
A plan for training prospective Fairfield shoe factory workers in the Hanover plant of the L. E. Beaudin Shoe Company in Hanover in preparation for the time when conditions will permit the opening of a factory at Fairfield was outlined to the members of the Fairfield Chamber of Commerce by President L. E. Beaudin of the shoe firm at a meeting Monday evening in Fairfield.

Mr. Beaudin said he is impressed by the possibilities of the Fairfield community as the site for future location of a factory. In view of present war conditions, Mr. Beaudin stated he doubted whether the results would justify conversion of the Fairfield community hall building for use as a factory now.

Cigarette and Cigar Tax Boost Effective Nov. 1: An increase in the federal tax on large cigars and large and small cigarettes becomes effective November 1. Rothensies, collector of internal revenue for the first district of Pennsylvania, advised local dealers today. The next tax rate is embodied in the revenue act of 1942.

The new act imposes a floor stock tax on these articles, which means that the difference between the old and the new rates of tax must be paid with respect to all large cigars and large and small cigarettes in the hands of dealers and manufacturers at the close of business October 31.

The new tax imposes an increase of 25 cents per thousand on small cigarettes and 60 cents per thousand on large cigarettes. The tax increase or large cigars ranges from 50 cents a thousand on cigars that sell (wholesale) at two and one-half cents each to $6.50 per thousand on those selling at 20 cents.

PAY

Emerson said that "the strongest men on earth is the man who stands most alone." Owe money — be in debt — and you stand by the props that the sweat of other men's brows and the gray of other men's brains have earned and bought. You don't stand alone. You play false to your own strength.

Abhor debt, pay. Debt means to owe — somebody else. It means that you give up what might be yours. It means that you offer a part of yourself for sale for a definite sum. When you owe money you make yourself a slave. The other fellow holds you fast in literal bondage.

Abhor debt, pay. Better live happily away from glamor, smooth words, hand-clapping and selfish gratification than dog to some master whose whistle you are bound to respect.

Abhor debt, pay. The quickest way to kill a friend (the most valuable possession on earth) is to ask him to lend you money. If he is a real friend he will refuse. If he is a real man you will learn a lesson and thank him. The man who makes it a rule to live within his means soon creates means to live out of it. There is not one safe, sound, sensible rule in money affairs and that is to pay as you go — or don't go!

Abhor debt, pay. Start today to pay up. Will yourself to do it. Catch fire and enthusiasm from the freedom and power that follow in the way of the man who owes not a dollar to any man.

Abhor debt, pay. Tomorrow's subject: "Backbone" Protected, 1962, by The George Matthews Adams Service

Just Folks

THE DIFFERENCE

A lovely doll I chanced to see.
It cost me quite a pretty sum.
How proud and happy she will be Thought I, when home with that I come.

Of real silk the dress was made,
Of tinted wax the cheeks and arms,
Not many children could parade
A doll with such a wealth of charms.

But this I noticed, by and by,
That always when she went to bed
Upon her pillow close to lie
She chose the old rag doll instead.

She kept the fancy doll for show,
Alone it stayed from all the rest.
Even the neighbors came to know
She loved her ragged Susan best.

And looking back I now recall
That in her childhood she tried
To teach us grown ups, one and all,
The difference 'twixt love and pride.

Deer Season Opens Monday Morning At 8: While deer hunters prepare for the opening of the season for antlered game Monday morning at 8 o'clock, many hunters took to field and woods today for their last day of small game hunting in 1942. The small game season ends at 6 o'clock this evening. Leo Bushman, Adams county game protector, said that the kill of small game throughout the county this year has been "as good or better than last year." Rabbits were plentiful in some sections and scarce in others but squirrels and birds were generally in food supply.

CHICAGO CUBS'
KEN HUBBS IS BEST ROOKIE

BOSTON (AP)—Ken Hubbs, the rangy Chicago Cubs second baseman who excited the baseball world this past season by flashing to two fielding records, is the National League Rookie-of-the-Year for 1962 in a landslide.

The quick, sure-handed Californian, still 17 days short of his 21st birthday, was named on all but one of the 20 votes cast by a panel of the Baseball Writers Association of America, which announced the results Wednesday. Donn Clendenon, the Pittsburgh Pirates' fine hitting young first baseman, received the other vote.

Hubbs broke two major league records for second baseman set by Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox in 1948. The marks were 78 consecutive games without an error and 418 successive chances without an error. Doerr had strings of 72 games and 414 chances.

Hubbs batted .260, with five homers, 49 runs batted in and 90 scored for the Cubs. The 6-foot-2, 180-pounder joined the Cubs' farm system in 1959 after graduating from Colton High School, where he was an outstanding all-around athlete.

The youngster is the second straight Cub to take the rookie award. It went to outfielder Billy Williams in 1961.

Toronto Win Drops
Canadiens To 4th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It got to the point where one goal equaled two places.

That was the mathematics in the National Hockey League Wednesday night when the Montreal Canadiens lost to Toronto 2-1 and dropped from a share of second place to fourth.

Chicago edged Boston 5-4 and Detroit and New York struggled to a 3-3 tie in other NHL games, leaving Chicago alone atop the standings, while the three-way jam for second place was spread out a bit.

Toronto emerged in sole control of second, two points back of Chicago and one up on Detroit. Montreal is one more back in fourth, but well up on New York and Boston, the last two.

BUCKEYES WIN
3RD STRAIGHT;
BEAT VIRGINIA

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It wasn't supposed to be like this at all.

This was supposed to be the year that Ohio State was from nowhere and at last — Cincinnati moved out of the Buckeye shadow and into its rightful spot in the college basketball picture.

But, like an aging star who is loathe to leave, the Buckeyes just won't give up the ghost.

They took their third straight Wednesday night, beating Virginia 70-46 and keeping pace with top-ranked Cincinnati, which rolled over Miami of Ohio 58-36, the Bearcats' third of the season and 21st victory in a row.

37 FOR WERKMAN

The Bearcats were the only member of the Top Ten in action Wednesday. In some of the other major results, Texas put on its best defensive showing in more than 10 years in subduing East Texas State 71-38 and Nick Werkman, the nation's third leading scorer last season, scored 37 points in leading Seton Hall to a 90-70 conquest of St. Anselm's of New Hampshire.

California beat St. Mary's of California 77-63. Tennessee won from Xavier of Ohio 63-48. Oklahoma State crushed Montana 65-47 and North Carolina used a huge edge in rebounding to beat Clemson 64-48.

Two years in a row Ohio State had been picked as the nation's best, and led every weekly poll-up until the NCAA title game. Twice they lost the national title to Cincinnati.

PENN SETS RECORD

This then, said the critics, should be the year Ohio State falls from favor and Cincinnati takes over. It looked that way in the early voting this season, too, with Cincinnati ranked No. 1 and Ohio State out of the Top Ten.

The Cavaliers stayed close in the early going but Ohio State pulled away from a 22-21 lead to a 30-23 advantage at the half. They increased the margin steadily throughout the last half.

There 22-point final margin over Virginia, however, was much less

KNICKS BREAK
ZEPHYRS' JINX

DETROIT (AP) — With two teammates traded away, the New York Knicks were all fired up as they snapped a five-game losing streak in spanking the Chicago Zephyrs 133-117 in the opener of a National Basketball Association doubleheader here Wednesday night.

The Knicks, bogged down in the NBA Eastern Division cellar, hope to improve their lot tonight when Tom Gola joins the team at Cincinnati.

Gola was obtained by New York Wednesday in a trade with the San Francisco Warriors. The trade sent Kenny Sears and Willie Naulls to San Francisco.

In the second game of the doubleheader, the Detroit Pistons, who have been floundering around in the league's Western Division, had a three-game winning streak broken by the world champion Boston Celtics 106-93.

No other games were scheduled.

than the 91-42 drubbing Cincinnati administered the same team earlier this week.

Bigler Matmen
Host Cedar Cliff

The Biglerville High School westlers will engage in their second meet of the season tonight at 7:30 o'clock when they meet Cedar Cliff at Biglerville.

In their opening meet on November 26 at the Cannons lost 30-14 to the highly-regarded West York grapplers.

STEELERS EYE PLAYOFF BID TO BOWL IN MIAMI

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers are working out for their game with the Philadelphia Eagles with two goals in mind—the most season victories in the club's history and a trip to Florida.

A victory over the Eagles in Philadelphia Sunday would give the Steelers' eighth triumph of the season, a club record, and would keep them on the track for a berth in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl in Miami Jan. 5. They have lost five games.

IN SECOND PLACE

The Steelers currently are in second place in the NFL's Eastern Division. The runners-up in the league's two division will meet in the bowl in Miami Jan. 5. New York has clinched first place in the East.

The Steelers opened their training for the Philadelphia game Wednesday and coach Buddy Parker expressed some concern about the return to action of Philadelphia end Pete Retzlaff.

"And, wouldn't you know, the Eagles have Retzlaff back and playing terrifically just when we are going to play them. He makes the big difference in their club. With Retzlaff in a game, the other club has to worry about two top pass-catchers. The other, of course, is (Tommy) McDonald."

"Everybody gets healthy in time to play us," Parker added. The Steelers defeated the Eagles 13-7 earlier in the season.

Long Beach Loses
Second Loop Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The twin scoring threats of Bill Bridges and Larry Staverman and the long, long road combined to hand weary Long Beach its second loss in the American Basketball League season.

Bridges tossed in 44 points and Staverman 34 Wednesday night as the Kansas City Steers turned back Long Beach 112-91 in the only ABL game on schedule. It was the Chiefs' seventh road game in eight days.

The game erupted into a brief free-for-all late in the final period when Bridges was fouled by Bill Spivey and retaliated. In seconds, both teams were battling on the floor. Spivey was ejected.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The Dallas Texans of the American Football League Wednesday signed big Michigan State tackle Ed Budde, a first draft choice of both the Texans and the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. Amount of the two year contract were not disclosed.

ARIZONA STATE LED GRIDDERS ON OFFENSIVE

NEW YORK (AP) — Arizona State University wound up the college football season as the biggest offensive threat in the country and Mississippi proved the stingiest team on the gridiron, according to NCAA final statistics released today.

The Sun Devils, who completed a 7-2-1 campaign, averaged 384.4 yards a game, almost 10 more than runner-up Oregon State, which had a 375.2 mark.

The Rebels, who take their 9-0 record into the Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl, allowed only 142.2 yards a game edging Memphis State, with a 147.1 average.

TOPS IN RUSHING

Ohio State was tops in rushing offense, Tulsa the leader in passing, Minnesota No. 1 in rushing defense and New Mexico first in passing defense.

The Buckeyes rolled up an average 278.9 yards a game, winning that title by a large margin over resurgent Oklahoma, which had a 265.9 mark. The Sooners also were third in total offense as they finished an 8-2 season.

Tulsa won in the aerial race with 199.3 yards a game to 195.3 for No. 2 Northwestern.

Minnesota allowed only 52.2 yards a game on the ground to take the rushing defense championship and New Mexico permitted 56.8 yards a game in the air to win the forward pass defense crown.

Penn State Will Drill At Annapolis

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —The Penn State football team will open drills Dec. 17 at Annapolis, Md., for its Gator Bowl appearance against Florida Dec. 29.

Team members, now enjoying an end of semester vacation, can expect heavy workouts, possibly a full-scale scrimmage the second or third day, Coach Rip Engle said.

Engle said it was decided to train at the Naval Academy because it has a huge field house that could be used in bad weather.

GHS Meets Newport Friday In Blue Mountain Opener On New Senior High Floor

Gettysburg High School opens its 19-game basketball season here Friday evening when it makes its debut in the Blue Mountain League on the new senior high school floor.

Merrill Eckhart, new Warrior coach, has announced his opening lineup will probably include two Seniors, two Juniors and a Sophomore.

John Longanecker, a backcourt man, and either Eddie Ziegler or Gary Nelson, pivotmen, are listed for opening assignments. All are Senior lettermen.

Eddie Tilberg, a Junior, is scheduled to pair up with Longanecker in the back court with Bob Deitz, Junior, and Dick Finkboner, a Sophomore, as the front courtmen. However, Finkboner sprained his ankle on Tuesday and is a doubtful starter.

Dave Jones, Senior, and Rick Jones, Junior, are first line replacements. Completing the varsity squad will be Conway Bushey, Bob Crandall, Jay Hartzell, Paul Olson and Jim Newman.

PROGRESS SLOWLY

Eckhart reports his squad has been coming along slowly and with more experience should perform satisfactorily.

The Jayvee teams meet at 6:45. The Gettysburg-Newport clash is one of five Blue Mountain games which features the opening of the league Friday night. In other games Biglerville plays at East Pennsboro, Susquehanna at Shippensburg, Camp Hill at Big Spring and Northern at Boiling Springs.

Camp Hill is the defending league champion and expects to be a strong contender again this season with three veterans from last year's varsity. East Pennsboro looms as a real threat with a combination which has been playing together since they were Eighth Graders.

OTHER OPENERS

In addition to Gettysburg, Fairfield and Delone will open their seasons Friday night. Fairfield will be host to Middletown, Md., while Delone meets arch-rival Hanover at McSherrystown.

New Oxford, victor over South Western in its opener, goes after its second victory by entertaining Dover.

Bowlers Offered Free Vacation

A free all-expense week's vacation for two in Miami Beach, Fla., is being offered by the Edgewood Bowling Lanes, Emmitsburg Rd., it was announced today by Robert Minter, manager.

Starting Friday and continuing through January 7, each bowler who bowls four games will be permitted to enter his or her name once for a drawing on January 7. For each additional game bowled during that time the bowler's name will be entered another time. League games will be counted.

The winner may select the time for the vacation trip which will be for eight days and seven nights.

The contest is open to all bowlers.

ALL-AMERICA GRID CHOICES BY AP NAMED

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Fabulous Terry Baker, Jerry Stovall, George Mira and George Saines — responsible for a combined total offense of over 5,000 yards this season — comprise the backfield of the 1962 Associated Press All-America Football team announced today.

Baker, an honor student in mechanical engineering at Oregon State, was named Heisman Trophy winner as the outstanding player of the year and was the top National Football League draft pick.

In all, six members of the All-America were first round NFL selections, including the versatile Stovall from Louisiana State, ends Pat Richter of Wisconsin and Dave Robinson of Penn State, center Lee Roy Jordan of Alabama and Purdue tackle Don Brumm.

MIRA AND BAME

Mira, the pass master of Miami, Fla., and fullback Saines from Michigan State are joined by Damon Bame, fierce guard and linebacker from Southern California's national champions, tackle Bobby Bell of Minnesota and guard Johnny Treadwell, heart of unbeaten Texas' defense.

Bame and Mira are juniors, the rest seniors.

An unusual feature of the line which averaged 212 pounds per man — 20 pounds less than last year's All-America forward wall — is that the most weight is packed into the end position. Richter is a 230-pounder who guarded a flank for the nation's No. 2 power, Robinson goes 222.

The fast, hard-hitting aggregation was picked on recommendations composed of sports writers and broadcasters who took into account all games through Dec. 1.

Only one man in collegiate history ever cranked out more career total offense yardage than the left-handed passing Baker, whose 2,276 output this fall gave him 4,980 for his three varsity seasons. Johnny Bright of Drake set the mark of 5,903 a dozen years ago.

Baker was a Portland, Ore., high school teammate of halfback Mel Renfro, the brilliant University of Oregon star who landed a second team All-America berth. Mississippi's Glynn Griffing, Billy Moore of Arkansas and spectacular Eldon Portie of Brigham Young were other second team backs.

OTHER CHOICES

The line has ends Hugh Campbell of Washington State and Tom Hutchinson of Kentucky, tackles Art Gregory of Duke and Ray Schoenke of Southern Methodist, Georgia Tech's Rufus Guthrie and Oklahoma's Leon Cross at guards, with Don McKinnon of Dartmouth at center.

The third team: ENDS — Conrad Hitchler, Missouri, and Hal Bedsole, Southern California.

TACKLES — Tom Nomina, Miami of Ohio, and Fred Miller, Louisiana State.

Mount Wallops Baltimore 81-58 In M-D Opener For First Win Of Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If any of the crowd of 3,019 at the Cleveland-Providence American Hockey League game left before it was over Wednesday night, well, they shouldn't have.

There was a bit of action after the final buzzer—the league's longest, wildest brawl of the season.

The Barons had chalked up a 7-3 triumph, blasting 43 shots at Providence goalie Gil Mayer and foiling the Reds' hopes of closing up in the tight Eastern Division race. Then the big brawl started.

Mayer, the 5-foot-6 net-minder, and Cleveland player-coach Fred Glover appeared to touch it off and every player on each team got involved in the 15-minute scuffle. Only Dino Mascotto of the Reds and Jim Mikol of Cleveland, who were involved in the last and most prolonged fight of the post-game affair, received penalties.

Each got a major for fighting and a 10 minute misconduct, which carries a $25 fine.

2 SCORE TWICE

John Ferguson and Joe Szura each scored twice for the Barons, Szura netting both of his in the final period when the Providence defense collapsed. Pierre Brillant scored twice for the losers.

Gary Jarrett's goal with only 33 seconds of regulation left enabled Rochester to salvage a 2-2 overtime tie with Pittsburgh in the only other game on schedule.

Dickinson Foe For Bullets Here Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dickinson College, which scored an impressive 85-69 victory over Washington College at Chestertown, Md., in its opener Tuesday, will provide the opposition for the Gettysburg College cagers here tonight.

The Red Devils are looking forward to one of their best seasons in years with seven lettermen on the squad including Captain Bill Schantzenbach 6-1, Richie Shapiro 6-4 and Tony Hermann 5-8, who were starters last season. Dave Ditenhafer 6-2 has rejoined the squad after a year's absence. Freshman Dallas Winslow 6-3 heads the group of promising yearlings.

The Bullets are 1-1 for the young season and so far have performed in streaks, both good and bad. One phase of the game that Coach Bob Hulston is attempting to smooth out is combatting an all-court press with which the Bullets have twice encountered considerable trouble in losing to Temple and upsetting Albright.

At 6:45 the Bullet freshmen will go after their second straight victory when they tangle with the Dickinson Jayvees.

TERRY BAKER GETS HEISMAN GRID TROPHY

By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Oregon State Beavers line up for the Liberty Bowl game against Villanova, that stranger quarterback-backing the Beavers will be All-America Terry Baker.

The versatile star who led the team to an 8-2 mark and topped the nation in total offense hasn't seen much of his mates lately. He's been too busy accepting awards and honors for his fine season.

Baker collected the latest—and biggest—one Wednesday night, at the Downtown Athletic Club, when Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy handed him the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding player.

The attorney general, a substitute at Harvard in 1947, took a look at the 6-foot-3 Baker and said:

"I was a short end. I think the Heisman committee should recognize good, short substitutes."

He also noted that Baker passes left-handed and throws a baseball right-handed and quipped that Terry seemed as able as switching as his fellow Oregonian, Sen. Wayne Morse.

Baker was the 28th winner of the big bronze trophy, which depicts a football player lugging the ball with his left arm.

"I hope to rejoin the team in Corvallis Friday or Saturday, and get in at least one workout before the Liberty Bowl game," he said. "I have exams all next week, so I won't be able to practice then."

The Liberty game at Philadelphia, is Dec. 15.

"My mind is on that game, and then the basketball season," said Baker, who went to Oregon State on a basketball scholarship and didn't even play freshman football.

EYES

Baker, the No. 1 National Football League draft pick—the Los Angeles Rams tabbed him—indicated he would play pro football.

Baker's coach, Tommy Prothro, called him, "the greatest college back I've ever seen in my life. I've never seen a close second."

Dr. James Jensen, president of the university, hailed Baker's combination of high scholarship and athletic skill.

"It is a fine thing for our school," he said, "for one of our boys to have reached such a high plateau of all-around excellence. It makes all of us hold our heads a little higher and walk with our backs a little straighter."

GHS GRIDDERS GIVEN DINNER BY BOOSTERS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gettysburg High School's varsity football squad, coaches, cheerleaders and school officials were guests of the Booster Club at a banquet Wednesday evening at the Varsity Diner. Eighty-three persons, including parents of many of the players, were in attendance.

Rev. William "Bill" Woods, Seven Stars, a former Gettysburg College coach, was the speaker.

He stated that "academic zeal comes first in any level of education but football and sports are big supplements in your education."

PANEL MEMBERS

The speaker picked a panel from the audience for a question and answer period which was a highlight of the program. The panel included: Clifford B. Snowberger, representing the school faculty and administration; John Longanecker, football squad; Glenn L. Bream, Boosters Club; Jacob C. Britcher, fathers; Mrs. Rebecca Schwenk, mothers, and Head Coach Donald Young. A barrage of questions were directed to Wood, mostly on football.

Speaking briefly were Coach Young and George Forney, high school athletic director. Young presented his coaching aides, Earl Little, Pat Kelly, Don Bickel and Charles Lilley.

Guests introduced included H. Edgar Riegle, superintendent of schools; Charles Tressler, high school principal; Clifford B. Snowberger, junior high principal; Henry Krick, president of the Boosters Club; Robert Hartman, secretary-treasurer of the club, and Stover Small, club chairman for the banquet.

Mahlon "Jim" Hartzell, a club member, presided as toastmaster. Varsity squad members were presented large individual photos which had been on display during the season in windows of business establishments.

Discontinued Guard Units May Be Absorbed By 28th

By FRED WALTERS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Discontinued Pennsylvania National Guard units may be absorbed by the 28th Division, says State Adjutant Gen. Malcolm Hay.

Hay discussed the state's plans for meeting the National Guard cutback at Gov. Lawrence's weekly news conference Wednesday.

Lawrence told newsmen he "will be guided pretty much by the guidance the general gives me on military questions."

Both he and Lawrence disclosed that the 28th Division will be increased slightly in strength despite the over-all cutback in the state's National Guard units from 171 to 153.

SEEK FEW DISTURBANCES

The 28th will contain 88 of the new units.

"They may be able to absorb some of the personnel," Hay said.

He held out the possibility that the 104th Armored Cavalry, which will have 20 units under the proposed reorganization, also may absorb some of the displaced guardsmen.

Hay said he had discussed the plan with Maj. Gen. Henry J. Fluck, 28th Division commander, and Col. George Thompson, commander of the 104th.

"We got our heads together to try to see whether, by shifting units around, we could work up a plan to use the bodies in units that are going to be affected so it would involve the fewest disturbances," he said.

PETROSKY SUPPORT

"We think that is the right approach and we really feel it is better not to discuss the specific towns or counties that are involved until we can talk about the whole picture... we are going at it with the attitude that two are going to try to come up with a way to live within the secretary of defense's plan."

Hay said he also wanted to discuss the situation with Gov.-elect William W. Scranton's adjutant general, yet to be named.

The National Guard cutback took up most of the news conference.

Arsonist Sets 3 Fires In Basement

UPPER DARBY, Pa. (AP) — Three basement fires, set by an arsonist, forced 39 families from three buildings in the Drexelbrook Apartments around 1 a.m. Wednesday.

Paul Haggerty, assistant fire marshal of Upper Darby Township, said the fires were started by stuffing paper into basement lockers and setting it afire.

After setting the fire, the arsonist pulled the main switch in each building, plunging it into darkness and making it doubly difficult for occupants to make their way from the smoke-filled buildings.

No one was hurt and damage was mostly from smoke.

ence. The only other subject discussed at any length was the governor's support of Rep. Anthony J. Petrosky of Westmoreland County as floor leader for the 101-member Democratic delegation in the House.

NO OPPOSITION

Petrosky was elected without opposition after Lawrence and U.S. Rep. William J. Green Jr., Philadelphia Democratic leader, endorsed him.

Lawrence conceded he had opposed the Philadelphia organization's suggestion that Rep. Joshua Eilberg, Philadelphia House Democratic delegation chairman, be floor leader.

"I thought it would have been a mistake to have two leaders, one in each house, from Philadelphia," he said.

DENIES PRESSURE

Senate Democrats chose Sen. Charles R. Weiner of Philadelphia as their floor leader on Monday.

The governor denied that the Allegheny County House Democratic delegation had voted to support Rep. J. Dean Polen of Washington County but switched under pressure from Lawrence.

When the Allegheny County group caucused a week ago on the floor leadership, Lawrence said, the members agreed to postpone endorsement until Tuesday, when they came out committed to Petrosky.

COOKING IS FUN

THOMAS E. PIPER
Agent Marketing Agent

Fryer chickens are the outstanding market value this week, says Tom Piper, Penn State Extension Marketing Agent. Favorable farm prices for broilers during the first part of 1962 encouraged increased production for the last quarter. Production is now about 10 per cent greater than a year ago. Wholesale prices have tumbled in recent weeks because of the competition from holiday meats. Heavier pork supplies will also vie for the consumers' meat dollar in December. So, there will be plenty of low cost chicken sales during the next few weeks.

Retail meat prices are generally unchanged except for the usual weekend sales. Wholesale costs remained steady. Pork continues to be a good buy after recovering from the high prices early in the fall. Medium size eggs and processed dairy products provide protein at economy prices.

Looking ahead, retail prices are not expected to change much on fresh cuts of beef and pork for the rest of the year. Ham prices are beginning to edge higher. The smaller sized ones are being held back by some retailers who expect to sell them

JUDGE KEIM SPENT $5,813 TO LOSE RACE

HARRISBURG (AP) — Earl S.

Keim reports personal expenses of $5,813 in his losing Democratic campaign for supreme court justice while Republican Raymond P. Shafer says he spent only $150 in winning election as lieutenant governor.

The two men filed their campaign election expense reports with the state elections bureau Wednesday.

Keim reported income of $5,145 for his campaign.

Shafer submitted a simple form required of those who state they spent less than $150. It does not involve a detailed accounting of income and expenses.

OTHERS REPORT

Included among the county organizations reporting Wednesday were the Montgomery County Republican committee, which reported spending $75,996 from contributions of $88,012; the Women's Democratic Club of Huntingdon, whose treasurer, Mrs. Bessie O'Mara, reported no income but expenditures of $219, and the Fayette County Citizens Committee for Scranton and Van Zandt, which reported no income and no expenditures.

Other groups reporting (income, expenditures) included:

Greene County GOP Committee, $9,658 and $7,174.56; Lawrence County GOP Committee, $7,282 and $6,358; Allegheny County Citizens Committee for Scranton-Van Zandt, $16,261 and $12,606; Sharon City GOP Committee, $3,170 and $2,044.

for use as Christmas gifts. Ham is in heavy demand for year-end festivities. Trade feelings are mixed about turkey prices for Christmas market — with costs down two to three cents a pound. Others say that fewer turkeys were raised this year so prices will likely be up two to three cents a pound over Thanksgiving.

Grocery departments are now well stocked with supplies for 1963. Some major items such as canned corn, snap beans and tomato products may set new records in the size of pack. Applesauce, cling peaches and fruit cocktail seem headed for the list of better buys.

At fresh produce counters, vegetables that grow below ground — potatoes, onions, carrots and sweet potatoes—are better choices now. Other values include cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli. Supplies of tender vegetables such as peppers, cucumber, beans, etc., from Florida are just coming into production. Local markets are well supplied with apples from different areas. Emperor grapes are plentiful and priced to buy. Bananas are being featured in some area stores. A big citrus crop is in prospect this year, so prices are starting off rather low.

Delaware County Citizens for the Republican Party, $4,100 and $2,893; Scranton-Van Zandt rally (Montgomery County), $303 and $303; Union County Citizens for Scranton-Van Zandt, $200-$200; Bucks County Citizens for Scranton-Van Zandt, $500 and $500; Bedford County GOP Committee, $7,889 and $6,709.

Lehigh County GOP Committee, $56,951 (plus a $7,410 balance from previous statement) and $52,346; Lehigh County Citizens for Bill Scranton in Lackawanna County, $1,870 and $1,870 (including $1,422 for a newspaper ad run in both the Scranton Times and the Scranton Tribune).

Chester (City) Citizens for Dilworth, Clark and Gremminger, $3,600 and $3,600; Montgomery County AFL-CIO COPE (Committee on Political Education), $3,403 and $2,259.

COUNTY REPORTS IN

Columbia County Democratic Committee, $14,659 and $18,829; Franklin County Democratic Committee, $21,578 and $17,591; Fulton County Democratic Committee, $7,046.69 and $4,738.

Centre County Citizens for Clark Dilworth, $167 and $167. The Luzerne County Republican Committee reported income of $41,669, and expenditures of $40,598 while the rival Luzerne County Progressive Republican Committee reported income of $16,190 ($14,110 from one fund raising dinner in Wilkes-Barre) and expenses of $14,906 (including $5,150 for the Seventh Legislative District race).

The Montgomery County GOP Committee reported listed two $1,000 contributions from Thomas B. McCabe and one $1,000 donation from Roger S. Firestone, $1,250 each from four members of the Pew (Sun Oil Co.) family, $3,000 each from Sarah Mellon Scaife and K. Scranton Rozendall and $2,722 from Jay Cooke, former GOP national committeeman from Pennsylvania.

MELLON GIFTS

Mrs. Scaife also donated $1,000 to the Allegheny County Citizens for Scranton-Van Zandt. This report also listed $1,000 each from her brother, Richard K. Mellon, Pittsburgh financier, and their nephew, Paul Mellon.

The Lehigh County GOP Committee's report listed $2,000 contributions from Edward M. Young Jr. and Hannah Y. Cooke and $1,000 each from Max Hess, Robert A. Young, Joseph S. Young and F. R. Wills.

The Luzerne County GOP Committee received $1,000 each from Roscoe S. Miller and State Sen. Harold E. Flack.

Other contributions that showed up in the several reports were in smaller amounts.

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Shifting rock 10 miles below the earth's surface Tuesday caused the sharpest earthquake ever recorded in Denver, a government expert said today.

The jolt at 10:50 a.m. lasted 15 seconds. The tremor was felt 50 miles west of Denver.

A few cracked plaster walls and rattled dishes constituted the most serious damage reported. No one was injured.

OPPOSITION ACTS TO OUST MR. ADENAUER

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN, Germany (AP) — The conservative Free Democrats scheduled a meeting with leaders of the opposition Socialists Wednesday in a surprise bid to form a right-left coalition to unseat Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

West Germany's serious political crisis showed no sign of solution. Adenauer and his Christian Democrats discussed coalition with Socialist leaders Tuesday but reached no decision.

A communique said that they discussed "future political cooperation." Half the Socialist members of Parliament were reported opposed to a coalition with the Christian Democrats unless Adenauer retired.

LEADER IN TROUBLE

The unresolved crisis, touched off originally by the walkout of Free Democrats from the government as a result of the Spiegel affair, has put Adenauer in one of the toughest spots of his political career.

A union of Free Democrats and Socialists would mean an end to the 36-year-old Adenauer's rule. The Free Democrats, with 67 seats, hold the balance of power in the present Bundestag (lower house). Adenauer's Christian Democrats hold 241 seats and the Socialists 190.

A new arrest in the Spiegel case was announced while political leaders struggled to heal the breach caused by the crackdown

Diploma Valued At $46,364 To Student

CHICAGO (AP) — Failure to complete high school costs the average teen-ager $46,364, according to a study of lifetime earnings taken from U. S. Department of Labor statistics.

Commerce Clearing House, reporting the study, says a high school graduate earns an average of $257,557 during his working life. But a student who quits high school before graduation earns $211,193.

On the basis of annual income, the high school graduate can look forward to earning an average $5,567 a year. The high school drop-out's average is only $4,618.

BROTHER IS ARRESTED

Lawyer Josef Augstein, a brother of Der Spiegel's publisher, was taken into custody Tuesday on suspicion of complicity in high treason.

The previous arrests of publisher Rudolf Augstein and members of his staff touched off the turmoil that caused the exit of the Free Democrats from the government and brought on the resignation of Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss.

The first arrests followed an article in the magazine charging that the 400,000-man armed force Strauss built up during his six years in office was incapable of stopping any Soviet aggression. Critics charged that Strauss had sought revenge against the magazine, which had constantly opposed him. Strauss subsequently resigned, but efforts to patch up the coalition have so far been unsuccessful.

Kennedy News Channels Open Except In National Crisis

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — News from President Kennedy's administration isn't always handled in a goldfish bowl.

Kennedy himself is probably more accessible to reporters who want to see him than any president. The resulting stories, as this writer sees them, are not always happy, however, because of the rules covering such meetings.

By not revealing they were obtained in an interview and by not even indicating the President did the talking, they sometimes serve as simple publicity pipelines for Kennedy's views without his having to be responsible for them.

PRACTICE NOT NEW

The practice is not new. Other presidents have done the same, in one way or another. Off-the-record dinners or lunches with government officials are a kind of Washington folk custom.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, more and more has developed the habit of talking to reporters for background only—meaning what he says can't be attributed to him directly.

At the same time, other sources in the White House, within the bounds of any highly sensitive situation, have been accessible to reporters and occasionally very helpful.

Tuesday night in Pittsburgh, Salinger said, "Information has never been more accessible in Washington than it is today." He took newspapers to task for what he called their failure to deal effectively with irresponsibility within their own ranks.

NEWS LEAKS HARMFUL

But there is also within the Kennedy administration the kind of story that is fed or leaked to reporters and damages key people around Kennedy. Two examples: The cases of Chester Bowles and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Back in 1961 Charles L. Bartlett, close personal friend of Kennedy and Washington correspondent of The Chattanooga Times, wrote that Bowles, then under-secretary of state but not for long, had created a sense of disorder in the State Department and would continue to do so while he kept his job.

Bowles wasn't dropped immediately. But from then until he was removed, and given a job as special adviser to Kennedy, rumors persisted he was on his way out.

POST REVELATION

Now in this week's Saturday Evening Post, Bartlett, but this time along with Stewart Alsop, who is said to have fine contacts within the administration, reported on the "harried, secret" October days when Kennedy and his advisers decided on a showdown with Russia over its missiles in Cuba.

Secret though all this was supposed to be, Bartlett and Alsop report on who said what to Kennedy. But when they get to the part played by Stevenson, U.S.

ambassador to the United Nations, they quote a "nonadmirable" official as saying Stevenson "wanted a Munich" by making concessions to Russia.

NEW STORM

A new storm broke: Was the administration getting ready to bounce Stevenson, as it bounced Bowles Unless Kennedy now publicly backs Stevenson his value at the United Nations seems badly damaged.

Nothing here is intended to suggest Kennedy himself did the feeding or leaking about Bowles or Stevenson. But somebody around him did, and perhaps the somebody didn't like either man to begin with.

The administration has been criticized by the press for the way it clamped down on news during the Cuban crisis. But Salinger said Tuesday night that, while the administration did put the lid on information affecting national security, it withheld no legitimate information.

But 18 months ago The Associated Press reported, when there was no crisis, that "access to news sources" under the Kennedy administration is "managed" because Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara attempts to "determine who and under what circumstances newsmen interview or contact officials."

McNAMARA ORDER STANDS

McNamara tightened up almost from the time he took office in 1961. So it was only a reminder of a standing order when, during the Cuban crisis, Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, instructed all Pentagon officials to report to him the substance of all interviews with newsmen. That order still stands.

The State Department issued similar instructions to its officials during the Cuban affair, but later withdrew them. This writer has been pretty reliably informed that an order similar to Sylvester's was given to all division chiefs in the Department of Justice, not in writing but verbally.

That department is headed by Kennedy's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. The public affairs chief there is Edwin Guthman. When this writer sought to reach them Tuesday, for confirmation or denial, the answer was that both were out of town.

NO LETUP IN LONDON SMOG IS FORECAST

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP)—Dawn brought the first cracks in London's huge smog curtain today but the weatherman warned that conditions may get worse again.

Visibility extended up to 100 yards along some of the capital's main streets, but dense pockets of fume-laden smog still clung to the banks of the River Thames. Of the fog, an Air Ministry spokesman said, "Don't count your chickens. It might well come back tonight."

AIRPORT CLOSED

The dawn also brought an improvement in the fog across the country. Traffic still was idled along the east coast and in the northern county of Yorkshire, but many other areas had cleared.

London airport was closed for the third day.

More than 60 sudden deaths Tuesday and Wednesday were attributed to smog. The victims were mostly people with heart or chest complaints whose condition was aggravated by the sulphurous pall.

AS BAD AS '52

With smoke and sulphur dioxide in the air amounting to 10 and 14 times the normal content, the Weather Bureau said Wednesday things were as bad as in 1952, when a killer smog caused at least 4,000 deaths.

The forecasters had predicted no letup, and 200 hospitals were alerted for a major disaster. Nearly 400 beds were taken Wednesday night by emergency cases.

A London County Council official said hundreds of people who were due to go into hospital for operations were told to stay at home.

"They could afford to wait, he said. 'Smog victims cannot.'"

Authorities said Naerie was hit in the chest by a shot fired by a companion, Robert Gonzalez, also 19, of Philadelphia. The accident happened as the two hunted deer on a state game tract at Cold Springs, 19 miles north of here.

American sheep were first imported to the Aleutians in 1853, 14 years before Russia sold them to the United States as part of Alaska.

SYMBOLIC MEANING IN JFK'S TRIP

By HAROLD R. WILLIAMS
LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—President Kennedy's trip to Los Alamos Friday holds a symbolic meaning for this country's history.

On that day in 1941 World War II started and it was from that war that Los Alamos started work on the atomic bomb. The bomb ended the war.

In a way, Los Alamos was spawned on that date and it is conceivable that without that event it would still be a mountain retreat for boys instead of a bustling city of 13,500 persons busily engaged in supersecret nuclear experiments.

The President has never been to Los Alamos. He will find a community that is spread across the Pajarito Plateau—a series of finger mesas created by long-ago extinct volcanoes—in the Jemez Mountains.

It sits almost atop a mountain at 7,300 feet. The only access is by airplane, helicopter or on a twisting, turning mountain road. The Hill City, as it is called by the natives, is 35 miles northwest of Santa Fe and 96 miles north of Albuquerque.

It has only been since February 1957 that the high, wire fence and the pistol-packing guards were removed. But a supersecret complex has remained with the city.

TO INSPECT WORK

Probably the sensitive nuclear work and the inaccessibility of the city have helped to develop this complex.

One of the main reasons for the President's coming to Los Alamos is to inspect the work being done to build a nuclear reactor to propel space ships into prolonged flights to the moon or the planets. The project is called Rover, which is a part of Nerva (nuclear engine for rocket vehicle application).

The Kiwi reactors, named after the flightless birds of New Zealand, are being developed as engines for the giant space ships.

Project Rover was set up in 1955 under the Atomic Energy Commission but has been taken over by the Space Nuclear Propulsion Office, a governmental agency staffed by personnel from the AEC and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The first planned use of Project Rover is the development of a nuclear third stage for the Saturn C5 manned lunar landing operation. With the nuclear third stage, a single vehicle would be all that would be needed for a landing and a return from the moon. Otherwise, a chemical-fueled rocket would require two-launch rendezvous of C5s or the development of a much larger chemical rocket.

The most important advantage of nuclear rockets is that they can use hydrogen as propellant. Hydrogen is more than a dozen times lighter, per particle, than the combustion products used to propel chemical rockets.

Rover reactors must generate great power on small fuel volume. To create the rather modest thrust of 50,000 pounds a reactor must produce about one million BTU per second, or enough energy to boil away a ton of water every two seconds.

FIRE COMPANY SHORT $40,270

LEBANON, Pa. (AP)—The fund shortage at the Citizens Fire Co. in Palmyra has reached $40,270 with an audit still incomplete, according to officials.

Dist. Atty. Alvin B. Lewis Jr. said the company's former treasurer, Russell Barr, who has been missing since early last month, will be charged with embezzlement and fraudulent conversion.

The fire company earlier filed a complaint of fraudulent conversion against Barr and Lewis' office authorized a state police alert for him.

ACTIVE IN COMMUNITY

The $40,270 shortage, Lewis said was discovered in a three-week audit of the company's books covering a period from Jan. 1, 1959, to the present. He said the audit would continue.

The attorney said it was possible the state auditor general's office might be drawn into the investigation, since the state contributes to such accounts as the firemen's relief fund.

Barr is married and the father of two children. He had been active in community life at Palmyra while operating a filling station there.

Barr had been the Palmyra civil defense director and a special borough policeman. He had been treasurer of the fire company since 1954.

O. Hammerstein's Widow Being Sued

NEW YORK (AP)—A $105,500 claim for unpaid income tax has been filed by the State of New York against the widow of composer Oscar Hammerstein 2, who died in 1960 at Doylestown, Pa.

The claim, filed Wednesday in Manhattan County clerk's office, said Hammerstein owed state income taxes for 1950 through 1954 also asked penalties.

Hammerstein left the bulk of his estate to his widow, Dorothy. Its size was not estimated.

An attorney for the estate said the composer had lived in Doylestown for many years and only moved to New York about a year before he died.

DISCREPANCY ON VAN ZANDT COST FIGURES

HARRISBURG (AP) — Apparently contradictory reports on the personal campaign expenses of Rep. James E. Van Zandt, defeated Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, are on file in the state elections bureau.

Van Zandt reported in an affidavit dated Nov. 26 that his personal expenses in the campaign did not exceed $150.

The Van Zandt Committee for the U.S. Senate, based in Washington, filed a sworn report with the state bureau Tuesday showing Van Zandt contributed $2,500 on July 17.

WIFE GAVE $2,575

Van Zandt's wife, Esther, is listed as a $2,575 contributor to the same committee on the same date.

Total receipts for the Van Zandt committee were $64,015.

Reports of the Scranton for Governor Committee, headquartered in Lackawanna County, showed total contributions of $74,124.

Contributors to the successful bid for William W. Scranton for governor included Henry R. Luce, board chairman of Time, Inc., New York, $2,000; James A. Linen III, president of Time and Scranton's brother-in-law, $3,000; Mrs. Linen, Scranton's sister, $3,000; Dr. H. M. Rozendaal, another brother-in-law, from Schenectady, N.Y., $3,000, and Mrs. Roendaal, also Scranton's sister, $3,000.

OTHER CONTRIBUTORS

Nonstate residents also appeared more than once in the list of contributors filed by the Van Zandt for the U.S. Senate committee.

This list included Alice Roscher of Hallandale Beach, Fla., $5,000; James A. Noe, Monroe, La., $1,000 and Hugh L. Stone, San Angelo, Tex., $1,000.

Other New York contributors to the Scranton campaign fund included Thomas J. Watson Jr., president of International Business Machines, and Arthur K. Watson, who each gave $1,000.

The largest contributions, however, came from two Harrisburg men—Robert M. Mumma and Robert H. Stewart — each who gave $5,000—the maximum allowed by state law.

UNIONS CHIP IN

Mumma is a highway contractor and Stewart sells construction machinery.

Pennsylvanians making key contributions to the Scranton-Van Zandt ticket were Roger Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., $1,000; J. Howard Pew of Philadelphia, $3,000; J. N. Pew Jr. of Philadelphia, $3,000; Mabel Ethel Pew, Philadelphia, $3,000; R. K. Mellon, Pittsburgh, $1,000; and Mrs. Alan M. Scaife, Pittsburgh, $1,000.

Labor unions played a big role in financial contributions to the Clark for Senate Committee, supporting Sen. Joseph S. Clark, re-elected Democrat.

NO COMMITTEE REPORTS

The United Steelworkers of America and the International Ladies Garment Workers Union each chipped in with $5,000 apiece while the Textile Workers Union contributed $1,000 and the United Auto Workers citizenship department $2,000.

Total contributions for the Clark committee were $106,914. The Clark-Dilworth committee for Southeastern Pennsylvania reported contributions of $114,169 with $60,000 coming from the Democratic State Finance Committee.

Reports from the major campaign committee of the two political parties have not yet been filed. The deadline for these expense accounts is Thursday. Other major reports also are expected to be filed on that date.

GYPSY FINDS 'USED' STRAD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Most genuine "Stradivarius" violins found in lesser shops turn out to be fakes. But not so with one bought by gypsy violinist Arpad D'Zurko.

D'Zurko, an entertainer at Rieck's Studio Inn at Palo Alto, found an old Italian violin at a violin shop here, in excellent condition.

PERFECT TONE

It was perfect in tone and other essentials. It also was labeled inside "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis, 1734."

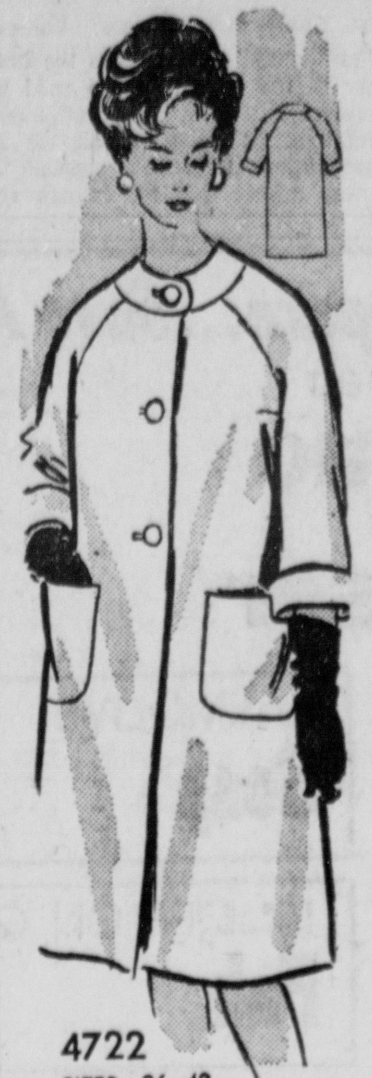

The dealer told D'Zurko to forget the label. It obviously was forged he said.

But D'Zurko bought the instrument anyway, and had he been an ordinary violinist the story might have ended there.

However, he was not an ordinary violinist. He says he is a full-blooded gypsy of the Lavata class, of which there are less than six on the West Coast. He also is one of the few gypsies musicians with a college education and conservatory training in music.

D'Zurko soon was convinced that his violin sounded very much like a Strad. He named it the "Gypsy Stradivarius" much to the annoyance of other musicians.

9-YEAR-OLD BATTLE LEADS TO U.S. SENATE

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — January will become a major milestone for George McGovern when he is sworn in as South Dakota's first Democratic U.S. senator in 26 years.

It caps a campaign he started in 1953 when Democratic affairs in the state, traditionally Republican, were at perhaps their lowest ebb.

The Democrats then could muster but two votes in the 110-member legislature.

McGovern asked that something be done about the situation. Ward Clark, Democratic state chairman, named McGovern executive secretary.

McGovern's ascendancy to the Senate was confirmed Wednesday when Republican Sen. Joe Bottum conceded the Democratic victory after a month-long recount.

McGovern held a 504-vote margin as he moved up to give the Democrats a 67-33 Senate majority starting next month.

The senator-elect became a Democrat in 1945 because he said he felt that party was "more on the side of the average American."

McGovern was tapped by President Kennedy to become Food for Peace director, a berth he held until embarking upon this year's campaign.

cians who thought he was trying to put on airs.

CLAIM CHALLENGED

Violin maker Frank Passa of San Francisco challenged him on the name, and talked him into getting a complete appraisal.

The issue shifted to New York, and to one of the nation's top violin experts, Rembert Wurliizer. In his files were the exact dimensions of a mold used by the Stradivari family, now preserved in a museum in Cremona, Italy.

D'Zurko's instrument fit the dimensions of the mold perfectly. Wurliizer says this matter of the mold is "interesting," but incidental to the actual authentication of the violin.

He says the label was a fake, one of the many that have turned up in this country. The San Francisco dealer was right. The label could be disregarded.

But Wurliizer pronounced the violin to be the true handiwork of Francesco Stradivarius, son of Antonius.

Wurliizer also says the violin had been in the collection of T. C. Peterson, of Berkeley, Calif., as bears "a tiny mark or brand which Peterson put on each of the eons in his collection."

The supposition is that after Peterson's death the violin passed through the hands of several dealers who were not acquainted with its true origin.

D'Zurko bought the instrument, less than $10,000 and values it a lot more than that. But it isn't for sale.

U.S., SOVIETS REACH ACCORD ON SPACE WORK

By TOM HOGE
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. delegates took heart today from two U.S.-Soviet agreements on scientific cooperation in a series of space experiments and on the general economic benefits of disarmament.

Delegates expressed guarded hope that the two agreements, together with the easing of the Cuban crisis, signaled a period of comparative harmony in East-West relations.

At Geneva, however, disarmament negotiators were deadlocked as tight as ever on the key issue of controls.

AGREE ON BENEFITS

In short, the Soviets and the West were agreed on the great benefits disarmament would bring, but they were no nearer agreement on disarmament itself.

Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate at the United Nations, hailed the limited agreement on cooperation in space as a "practical demonstration that our nations can, despite political differences, cooperate in a highly important field of human endeavor."

The fruit of a broad agreement between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev early in the year, it provides for scientists of the two nations to work together in the use of earth satellites in communications, weather forecasting and mapping of the earth's magnetic field.

DETAILS GIVEN

The agreement was worked out in summary at Geneva last June by Hugh L. Dryden, deputy director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), and Soviet academician Anatoly A. Blagonravov.

Secretary-General U Thant and the 110-nation political committee were given the details Wednesday. In 1964-65 the two nations will coordinate the launching of weather satellites after working out methods of exchanging information gained from experiments this year and next.

"YEAR OF QUIET SUN"

In 1964-65, called the international year of the quiet sun, each nation will launch a satellite to map the magnetic field.

Next year, they also will cooperate in experiments with the U.S. communications satellite Echo A12.

In the second agreement announced Wednesday, a joint U.S.-Soviet declaration said world disarmament would be of multi-billion-dollar benefit to lesser developed nations and would not hurt the economy of any nation.

Long Flight Program Ends With Successful Launching

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Karel J. Bossart, Belgium-born aeronautical engineer, watched proudly from atop a missile hangar as a great silvery projectile labored from its launching pad.

The 135-ton monster slowly picked up speed as its tons of fuel were consumed by three thrust engines. Gradually it pitched over on a southeast heading and sped from sight.

Bossart, known as the "father" of the Atlas intercontinental range missile, received word minutes later that this Atlas was well on its way to a target 5,000 miles down the Atlantic tracing range.

LAST ICBM TEST

The launching Wednesday was the last test for America's premier ICBM, closing out a flight program which began 5½ years ago on the same launching pad.

Bossart recalled that Atlas originally was conceived as a much larger vehicle, with five main engines and takeoff thrust of nearly 700,000 pounds, compared with 389,000 pounds for the most powerful breed of present-day Atlas.

In 1946, the Air Force awarded General Dynamics-Astronautics a contract to develop an intercontinental range missile capable of hurling a nuclear warhead 5,000 miles—4,800 miles farther than any U.S. missile had flown. The company named Bossart project engineer.

ELIMINATE ATLAS

Because nuclear weapons were ponderous packages in those days, the five-engine Atlas was conceived. But in 1947, the Defense Department swung an economic ax and eliminated Atlas.

Russia, meanwhile, proceeded full steam with development of an ICBM to deliver the cumbersome payloads. As a result, the Soviets perfected a long-range rocket before the United States, and when man determined he could use such power to explore space, Russia had the boosters to put up seven-ton satellites and five-ton manned spacecraft.

Bossart persuaded General Dynamics to use its own limited funds to continue the Atlas program. Atlas was redesigned to the three-engine configuration and the first test vehicle, with only two engines and a dummy nose cone, thundered away from Cape Canaveral June 11, 1957. It went out of control and was destroyed by the range safety officer 51 seconds after blastoff.

29 LAUNCHINGS

Twenty-seven months and 29

launchings later, the missile became operational. Today 12 squadrons totaling 108 missiles are war-ready. Atlases have been used more than 30 times on successful American space launchings, including the orbital flights of astronauts John H. Glenn, Malcolm Scott Carpenter and Walter M. Schirra. More than 100 space firings lie ahead for this rocket which is serving until more powerful boosters are available.

MUD VILLAGES

All Panjabi villages are constructed of mud — or "kutchra" — which is a combination of cow dung, straw and dirt baked in the sun. Each family usually occupies a compound — several rooms surrounded by a mud wall which encloses a courtyard of cows, kids, fodder, chickens, straw and sometimes kitchen gardens. The narrow alley ways between the compounds serve as streets — sometimes paved with brick and divided by open drains for sewage.

My particular project is unique in the fact that we are the first to "pioneer" in rural Pakistan. Most of our volunteers are living in villages — in mud houses — and eating the local food.

My permanent assignment is now in the village, Dhamke, which is about 13 miles from Lahore. I work with a team of four others — two civil engineers, one agriculture extensionist, and another community development worker. Our project of the past month has been repairing a mud house, donated by the chairman of the union council, and settling into it in the true Pakistani style. With the help of the village ladies and the local carpenter, we mud-plastered and white-washed our two tiny rooms, built a septic tank, cut ventilators and windows, constructed a cement wash place (the only "pekh" corner in our compound), and managed to hollow out a place to unpack our suitcases. We have an ideal location in the center of the village (Christians are usually isolated outside the village walls) and are comparatively comfortable. Our purpose for living in a compound is to set up a "demonstration" house with improvements within the realm of local materials and conditions. Even after a few short weeks of village life, I have come to respect and admire the local housewives for the ways in which they meet the obstacles and frustrations of no refrigeration or electricity, crowded quarters, poverty, lack of water, sickness, dirt, ignorance and weather. But I believe the only way to understand their problems is to share them — by living as they do (as much as possible). Only then will I be able to suggest improvements.

TALENTED TEAM

The members of my team are enthusiastic and talented — improvise has become the key to our existence. Although it takes 25 hours a day just to shop, prepare meals, wash, study (yes, we still have language lessons every day), communicate, attend local meetings — survive — we have managed to set up several projects for village improvement. The engineers, with the help of the union council and village men, have started to construct a sorely-needed girls' school; our agricultural engineer is surveying for demonstration plots and possible mechanization. My project is to start some cottage industry among the women, eventually to organize a cooperative for local sale of their skilled basketry and embroidery work. The cooperative idea is a new one to the Pakistan villager — especially among the women. Not only do I have to inculcate the principles of Western organization (i.e. not quite Roberts' Rules of Order, but similar) but also convince them that selling their work is a good way to make the money needed for basic necessities. It's a big job and involves both rural and urban Pakistan — villager and official. There is quite a gap between the two and part of our job here is to span this gap with a bridge of communication.

MUCH TO LEARN

We all still have quite a bit to learn before we can begin to inroduce change. At the moment the village ladies are teaching me how to make a rezai (quilt; the only means of warmth in the winter) and, as I never was a good seamstress, this involves many hours in the sun talking and laughing and just making friends with them. My work (community development) must proceed along slow lines such as this and from these friendships eventually I may be able to work out my project. At times my Western, Yankee "efficiency" almost gets the better of me — we are so used to fast results that the slower, more round-about pace of Pakistan is sometimes frustrating indeed. I must admit that the human rewards of friendship and understanding certainly are more abundant at this point than anything material — and, at the risk of sounding corny, the former are a lot more worthwhile.

So many new, exciting, discouraging and promising things happen every day that I can't possibly record them all.

MRS. A. KELLY CONCEDES RACE TO MISS BLATT

HARRISBURG (AP)—Even he long years in politics apparently didn't condition Genevieve Blatt for the month-long suspense over the outcome of her bid for a third term as state secretary of internal affairs.

So when her Republican opponent, Mrs. Audrey Kelly, conceded the race Wednesday, Miss Blatt was at a temporary loss for words.

"Something cogent ought to be said, but I don't think it's in me," said the veteran Democrat.

CLOSE FRIENDS

Mrs. Kelly, making her first bid for statewide office, wired her concession and congratulations after certified returns from 65 of the 67 counties showed Miss Blatt held a 1,390-vote lead.

"Dear Genevieve," said Mrs. Kelly, "I congratulate you and extend best wishes for a successful third term."

The contest between the two women was the first of its kind in Pennsylvania history and, curiously, they became close friends.

After collecting her thoughts, Miss Blatt said she was thankful for her victory, both to the voters and her campaign staff.

GETS 3RD TERM

"I am also thankful to Mrs. Kelly for her telegram and the fine way in which she conducted her campaign. It was one of the pleasures of the campaign that I got to know her."

Miss Blatt will be sworn in for her third four-year term in the $22,500 annual post next month.

Unofficial tabulations by the Associated Press on election night Nov. 6 showed Miss Blatt ahead by 2,488 votes. These tabulations did not include the absentee ballots, which under the law could not be counted until Nov. 16.

2 COUNTIES NOT FINAL

The current totals are on the basis of certified results from 65 of the 67 counties, and a telephone report of Lackawanna figures and unofficial returns from Montgomery.

In Montgomery, 1,006 votes have been impounded in a court contest and a hearing on that dispute has been scheduled for Dec. 16.

The latest figures in the elections bureau showed Miss Blatt with 2,197,966 to 2,156,476 for Mrs. Kelly.

The December meeting of the FTA association will be held Dec. 10 with a Christmas program under the direction of Mrs. Jean Bowers, vocal music instructor.

The high school bank will present a Christmas program at the high school Sunday afternoon, Dec. 16.

Free meter parking has been authorized from Dec. 14 through Dec. 25 by borough council members, who met Monday evening with all members present.

A contract to install 502 feet of new water line from the end of George Street Extended to the Robert Polley residence was awarded to Wanz Brothers, Inc., and the snow removal contract was renewed with Thurston Putman.

Council also approved a change in the water ordinance, to become effective January 1, 1963, when "customer" will mean applicants for water service to a house, apartment, house trailer or place of business. Residents affected by this change will be notified by council prior to January 1.

Council accepted five dozen Christmas light bulbs from George Angell to be used to supplement the street lighting decorations.

A treasury balance of $40,004.02 was reported from the general fund and $5,888.46 from the parking meter fund.

KENNEDY GIVES STEVENSON OK IN POST ISSUE

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy hopes his public declaration of "fullest confidence" in Adlai Stevenson will put an end to speculation that the U.N. ambassador may be on his way out.

A "Dear Adlai" letter from Kennedy to Stevenson was made public by the White House Wednesday night. Officials said the decision to give it out was prompted by the President's determination to try to remove any uncertainty about Stevenson's future.

The speculation stemmed from publication of a Saturday Evening Post article written by two Washington reporters, Stewart Alsop and Charles Bartlett, a close friend of the President.

The article quoted anonymous officials as saying that at the outbreak of the Cuban crisis Stevenson dissented from Kennedy's decision to throw a naval blockade around Cuba and advocated a softer approach.

Denials by the White House and by Stevenson, coupled with statements that Stevenson had in fact supported the blockade decision, failed to quiet the speculation. Officials decided the tempest could be stilled only by personal action by Kennedy.

The letter, read to newsmen by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, made two major points:

1. That Kennedy has the "fullest confidence" in Stevenson and has valued his advice "very highly."

2. That Stevenson will continue as ambassador at the United Nations.

The letter also showed that Kennedy is satisfied the Soviet Union's withdrawing of missiles and bombers from Cuba has effectively ended the nuclear threat to U.S. security. The President said without qualification "We have eliminated the nuclear menace from Cuba."

He cited that point in his letter to Stevenson as evidence of "the prudence of our policy and its execution, in which you played such an active part."

He would have quit

The White House said Kennedy's letter reached Stevenson at the United Nations about noon Wednesday. But there were indications Stevenson had been satisfied after a Monday conference with Kennedy that he had the President's backing in spite of the implication in the article that someone in the administration might be trying to put an end to his U.N. career.

Associates said Tuesday that if Stevenson had not been satisfied about the President's position he would have resigned already.

Kennedy wrote Stevenson that "this is just a note to tell you again how deeply I regret the unfortunate stir which has arisen over the statements contained in the Saturday Evening Post article."

'49ER BACK BREAKS LEG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco 49er halfback Bill Kilmer suffered a compound fracture of his right leg Wednesday night when his convertible sped off a freeway in suburban Belmont, ran over a cement sign base, continued 435 feet across a field and landed in a gully of water.

The right side of the car and part of Kilmer lay in the water until rescuers pried open a car door and lifted Kilmer to safety, the California Highway patrol said.

The former UCLA star had been driving alone north on the Bayshore Freeway when he passed a car, then apparently lost control of his auto.

"CAN'T EXPLAIN"

"He can't explain what happened," said 49er Coach Red Hickey, who rushed to see Kilmer in San Mateo Community Hospital, as soon as he heard of the accident.

After emergency care, Kilmer was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco.

X-rays had not been fully evaluated, said 49er team physician Dr. Lloyd Milburn.

Milburn emphasized that the fracture was a major injury. But he said its too early to tell if it might mean the end of Kilmer's football career.

BOROUGH AND PA. AGREE ON CONSTRUCTION

The final contract between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Borough of East Berlin for the rebuilding of East and West King, Harrisburg and Abbottstown Sts., was approved Tuesday evening at the monthly meeting of the East Berlin borough council.

A letter from the State Department of Highways said that bids will be opened and awarded for the job on Friday, December 14.

The agreement signed Tuesday evening indicated that the streets will be built 48 feet wide with a crushed aggregate base with a bituminous surface. The state will also construct the existing concrete curbing consisting of 1.98 miles, or slightly over 10,000 feet.

WILL BILL BOROUGH

The contract noted that the borough gave the state authority to construct sidewalks and curbing, which are borough responsibility, but that the borough will then be billed for its share of responsibility.

The total cost, the contract said, will run about $460,000, of which approximately $30,000 will be the borough's share.

The state will have the contractor build the curbing, and then council will pay one third of the cost to the state at the end of construction; one-third at the end of the first year and the final third after two years.

TO SHARE COSTS

It will be the borough's responsibility then to bill the property owners, with the latter paying the borough the final one-third.

The solicitor and engineer John Saylor were requested to take the forms to Harrisburg and explain the question of replacing sidewalks. It was noted that the borough will pay the costs of all sidewalks torn up by the contractor in the line of repairing the streets.

Council said that, about a year ago, several people were requested to lay sidewalks according to borough regulations and those people will not be billed for any sidewalk repair.

It was also suggested that many of the residents could contract privately with the workmen to have the sidewalks put in and this way may obtain a better price.

POLICE CHIEF REPORTS

Chief of Police reported that during the past five weeks, there were five larcenies, one auto theft, two furnishing beverages to minors and one accident. All have been cleared to date, he added. The juveniles involved have been prosecuted and sentenced.

Council authorized the payment of $1 additional hours to Officer John Bechtel for the time above his regular hours that he worked the past month. Bechtel said he has in his possession the goods that were confiscated from the larcenies and suggested that anyone having a claim see him at his home. The goods include anything from baby shoes to tire chains, car radios, flashlight batteries to a bag of chewing gum.

The borough authorized payment of a $2 bill for a windshield

Food Stamp Plan Abuses Probed

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—A federal agent has been assigned to Luzerne County to investigate possible violations of the federal food stamp plan started in October, it was announced Wednesday.

John Conaboy, supervisor of the plan which replaced the old surplus food program, said the agent is checking the possibility stamps have been used to pay bills or redeemed for cash.

Some 19,000 persons representing more than 6,000 relief and non-relief families, are currently receiving the stamps, redeemable at grocery stores for food.

Announce Prizes For Pa. Newspapers

HARRISBURG (AP)—The 1963 Keystone Press awards contest will offer prizes for 118 categories, according to the co-sponsoring Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association.

Contest chairman Jerome Weinstein, editor of the Centre Daily Times at State College, said the entry deadline is Feb. 1.

Eligible to compete are staffers of PNP member newspapers, and members of the Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors. These two organizations, with the Pennsylvania State University School of Journalism, sponsor the competition.

Prizes will be awarded at the annual press conference next May 16-18 at University Park.

to Secretary Curt Eisenhart's car. Eisenhart told council that the car was being used for borough business when a deer leaped in front of his vehicle and broke the windshield.

Eisenhart suggested council write a letter to the Lions Club thanking them for the six trash cans to be placed throughout town, and appreciation for the many other things the club has done in the past.

FIRE PROTECTION GOOD

A report from the fire underwriters in Philadelphia revealed that the borough has a 25 per cent evaluation, which is considered "good." According to this, it was noted, the borough fire insurance rate should be lowered.

Council received an attachment to the borough insurance policy which will cover auxiliary police. It was noted that the borough has no auxiliary police and there will be no additional charge for the insurance unless these police are hired.

Council discussed the corner area at the square after the streets are repaired. President Lau suggested that a tree planting commission be formed to plant several trees in town while another councilman suggested that a memorial to the World War II soldiers be placed there. It was noted that there is still a drive right-of-way on the property.

TO SEND NOTICES

Eisenhart reported that the two persons who were back on their water and sewer rent had been sent notices, and one responded by paying $95 while the other promised to pay "something" by this Saturday. The two had been sent notices that, unless the back bills were paid, their water would be shut off.

Council passed a resolution op-

PUT MILK IN INLAND BOXES

American military forces in Europe are now being served fresh, cold milk that comes right out of six-gallon size corrugated boxes, now being made at the Inland Container Corp., Biglerville plant.

These specially designed and patented containers have a plastic inner liner to which a rubber tube has been attached. The boxes are filled with fresh milk at the dairy by means of special filling equipment and delivered to the Army where they are placed inside refrigerated dispensers located in the various mess halls. When empty, they are simply discarded.

This efficient, low cost and highly sanitary system of packaging and delivering milk is a development of the Polygal Company, Division of Inland Container Corporation, Indianapolis, Ind. Polygal containers have been in commercial use in this country for over two years and the market is developing rapidly.

All seven U. S. Army approved dairies in Europe are in the midst of this massive, new program to provide fresh milk for almost all troop feeding in the Polygal dispenser container. Quart and half-pint waxed fibreboard containers were formerly used. One thousand triple valve dispensers are being installed and the program, when completed this month, involves the weekly shipment of over 250,000 gallons from dairies in Denmark, Holland, Luxembourg, West Germany, Austria and France to an undisclosed number of Army, Navy and Air Force locations throughout Europe. The Canadian Air Force is also being served in many locations.

Pipeline Company Offers Rate Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Natural gas customers in Pennsylvania and eight other states could benefit from a proposed $2,308,100 annual reduction in wholesale rates sought by the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., Houston.

The proposal was filed with the Federal Power Commission Wednesday. It resulted from a rate case settlement last February which provides for customers to benefit from any refunds Transcontinental receives from suppliers or from any reduction in rates made to reflect reductions by the suppliers.

The company wants to make the reduction retroactive to last July. Besides Pennsylvania, Transcontinental services utility customers in eight other states.

BEARCATS IN TOP SPOT IN AP COURT POLL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took two long years and a couple of national titles to do it, but the Cincinnati Bearcats finally reached the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press regular season weekly basketball poll.

The veteran Bearcats were an overwhelming choice for the top spot in the first weekly poll Wednesday, gaining 38 first place votes on the 44 ballots cast and outdistancing the second team by more than 100 points.

Strangely, it was the first time in three years Cincinnati had topped the poll, though the school won the NCAA title the last two seasons. Ohio State led each week for the last two seasons, only to fall before the Bearcats twice in the NCAA finals.

LOYOLA FOURTH

Only three other teams received first place votes. Duke got three, West Virginia two and Texas one. The Duke Blue Devils edged West Virginia for second place, 307 points to 281.

High-scoring Loyola of Chicago, which scored more than 100 points in each of its first two triumphs, took fourth, followed by Mississippi State, Wisconsin, Oregon State, Indiana, Kentucky and Wichita, in that order.

Kentucky, ranked third in the pre-season poll behind Cincinnati and Duke fell to ninth after suffering a upset at the hands of

APPLE DEMAND CALLED LIGHT

MARTINSBURG, W.Va. (AP)—Domestic demand for apples in the four state Appalachian fruit belt was light the past week but producers expect an upswing during the Christmas season, reports the Federal State Market News Service.

The Appalachian belt includes portions of West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The service said current demand from foreign countries was good, with a slight decrease in the European markets only.

In a related development, the West Virginia Horticultural Society announced Wednesday it was sponsoring a voluntary contribution to keep the state's apple growers in the national apple institute.

West Virginia supported the national organization for years through membership in the regional group—Appalachian Apple Service.

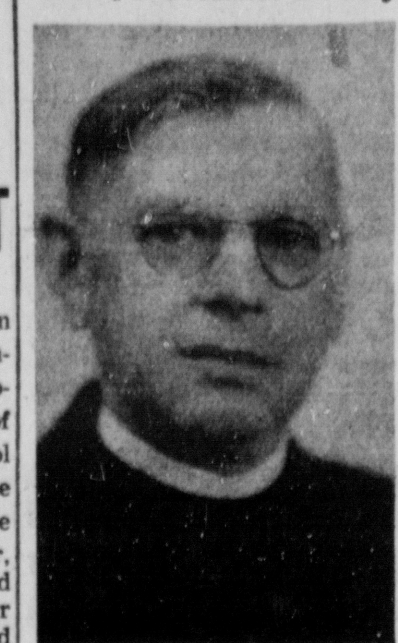

That ended last year, however, when West Virginia and Pennsylvania growers voted down a proposed assessment for advertising and other promotional activities. The horticultural society said its action was taken out of belief in the need for "educating the public about apples."

Scranton Isn't Looking To 1964

PANAMA (AP) — William W. Scranton says the tasks ahead of him as governor of Pennsylvania are too important to permit seeking the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

"We have many problems and the governor should stick to his knitting," Scranton told an interviewer Wednesday.

Scranton, an Air Force reserve major, ended a three day tour of duty Wednesday with the U.S. Caribbean Air Command. He attended graduation ceremonies at the U.S. Air Force school for Latin America and conferred briefly with U.S. Ambassador Joseph Farland.

The governor elect has been on a week's tour of active duty with a unit composed of persons from Washington and congressmen, including U.S. Rep. Frank Clark of Bessemer, Pa.

Navy Claims Eventual Win Over Gooneys But Birds Are Still Very Much In Battle

By ROBERT MYERS
PEARL HARBOR (AP)—To the U.S. Navy the gooney birds of Midway Island are slightly less welcome than a common cold and a lot harder to get rid of.

The outcome of the Navy's long and costly war with the gawky gooneys—their scientific name is Laysan albatross—is still in doubt but the brass continues to claim eventual victory. The Navy has been making that prediction for 40 years.

The gooneys don't claim anything. They just keep coming back to the Pacific atoll in seemingly ever-increasing numbers each November to re-establish their squatters' rights.

NICE LANDING SPORT

Both sides are convinced Midway is an ideal landing spot. The Navy uses it as a base for radar picket flights in the North Pacific; the gooneys consider it a perfect nesting ground.

The Navy has called in experts from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the University of Hawaii, and its own research department. Once it hinted wholesale killing of the birds might be necessary.

This brought the Audubon Society into the act—on the side of the gooneys. The Navy made a hasty retreat.

$150,000 A YEAR

Collisions between the goose-sized albatrosses and naval planes cost the bird population—now estimated at 150,000—about 500 gooneys annually. The cost to the Navy is some $150,000 a year in damaged aircraft parts.

"Nearly every plane that takes off or lands on Midway is struck by a gooney," a veteran of island service estimated. Most of the hits are minor but occasionally a tail section is ripped loose or a wingtip chopped off.

There have been no Navy casualties in this strange war but fliers live in constant dread of what could happen if a gooney hit a vital part during critical takeoff and landing periods.

THEY LIKE HOME

The blundering, strutting birds cause other problems. They walk under the wheels of cars and trucks, overturn bicycles, smash into each other in flights and fall in squawking heaps on runways.

Once several birds disrupted a training exercise by pecking at sailors taking cover in the brush.

The problem of the gooneys is a simple one—the birds nest in the same spot they were born. They refuse to move or be moved. Midway sailors say some even settle on asphalt covering their birthplaces.

Midway and an unknown island in the Aleutians (where the gooneys spend the summer) are the only places in the world where the birds gather in huge numbers. The gooneys fly away from Midway in June but always return by the end of November.

CAN'T SCARE 'EM

Attempts to lure the big creatures to other nesting places have failed. The Navy fixed up Green Island, 50 miles from Midway, with 19 runways to accommodate the gooneys. The brass figured such a layout would be just what they would want if they were gooney birds. It didn't work. The albatrosses took a look at their new home and flew right back to Midway.

Once the Navy tried sprinkling mothballs along runways. The birds mistook them for gooney eggs and sat on them. Another time, tires and sulphur were burned to smoke them out. Bazookas and mortars were fired to scare them. The gooneys seemed to enjoy the show.

HELP PREVENT FIRES AT XMAS FETE IN CHURCH

Are you planning on having a Christmas tree at your church during the Christmas season?

If so, the National Board of Fire Underwriters suggests that you follow these rules for fire safety:

- 1—Keep the tree outside until just before the holidays.
- 2—Set it up in a clear space in the room, never in a stairwell or under a balcony.
- 3—Use only electric lights to illuminate the tree. Never use candles.
- 4—Use only ornaments made of glass, metal or fire-resistant materials.
- 5—Check strings of electric lights and discard any with frayed wiring or loose connections.
- 6—When decorating the church hall for the holidays, use only flameproof materials.
- 7—Turn out the lights when the church is vacant.
- 8—Take down the tree immediately after the holidays and discard it outside.

GOOD SUGGESTIONS

If you are planning a dinner or social evening at your church as a part of observance of Christmas, the National Board offers these suggestions for making your Christmas a firesafe one:

- 1—The committee in charge of the event should make a thorough check of kitchen facilities at least a week in advance. The whole stove, including the oven, should be scoured to remove all grease.
- 2—If electrical equipment has not been checked recently, a qualified electrician should inspect refrigerators, freezers, fans and other electrical equipment to be sure it is in working order.
- 3—The kitchen should be equipped with self-closing metal containers for papers and trash. The containers should be emptied after the dinner.
- 4—A check should be made of all potential fire hazards, including the position of dish towels. Towel racks should never be placed in a position where the towels hang over an open flame.
- 5—If smoking is permitted at the affair, sufficient ashtrays should be provided. At the conclusion of the affair, someone should be made responsible for making certain that no cigarettes and cigars have fallen out of ashtrays or have been dropped on furniture or floors. All ashtrays should be emptied into a closed metal container before the church hall is closed.

Health

"I can't live without you," The rejected suitor said. And what true words they were. Married men live longer. Jokers say it seems longer. Statistics prove it is longer. Marriage promotes good health. Life is safer, saner, soberer. Rational habits prevail. Married men are more careful. When 100 married men die, Single dead men number 141.

CLAIM HOFFA CANNOT GET "FAIR TRIAL"

By GAVIN SCOTT
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Air pistol pellets fired at James R. Hoffa in court by an ex-mental patient have injected a new and unexpected element into the labor leader's conspiracy trial.

His attorneys quickly claimed the attack—in which the pellets bounced harmlessly off his body—proved the Teamsters Union president couldn't get a fair trial.

The shots were fired at Hoffa Wednesday by a man identified as Warren Swanson, 28, of Washington, D.C. Hoffa ducked, then lunged at the man, knocking him to the floor.

ARMED MARSHALS

Swanson required 14 stitches to repair head wounds. A deputy U.S. marshal struck him on the back of the head with a pistol and a Hoffa bodyguard got in a few kicks before the bleeding man was led from court in handcuffs.

U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller ordered Swanson committed to the medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo., for observation.

Miller ordered six additional armed marshals for courtroom duty and directed that henceforth everyone entering the court be searched.

IN SEVENTH WEEK

Hoffa, 49, is accused of conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act by accepting undercover payments from a transport firm in return for labor peace. The trial is in its seventh week.

The jury was out of the courtroom when the incident occurred. Miller ordered the jurors locked up overnight for the first time during the trial to prevent their hearing about it.

While Swanson underwent emergency treatment at a hospital, he told newsmen he came here to kill Hoffa—a man he had never met—because of a vision he had last month.

INTENDED TO KILL

"It sounds crazy, but I just got a message from a higher power," he said. He said the "message" came as he read the Bible in a Cincinnati, Ohio, hotel room in August.

"A voice told me—'You have to kill Jimmy Hoffa'—it said it twice," he said.

The attack on Hoffa came a year to the day after Swanson voluntarily entered the Camarillo State Hospital in Southern California for observation.

He was discharged Jan. 10 with the notation, "improved."

FLY IN AND STAY

BIG PINE, Fla. (AP) The Florida Keys are looking for new residents and free houses are to be built to attract them.

The residents wanted are purple martins, migratory birds noted for their enormous appetite for deer flies and mosquitoes. They pass over the Keys in their annual flight northward from Brazil, scientists say, but never have stopped because of a lack of suitable nesting places.

The Keys, which wage constant battle against mosquitoes, are anxious for help from the martins. Plans are to erect bird houses for the migrants near every home on Big Pine Key.

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

BY LUCRECE BEALE

Chapter Four
A BEAR IN TROUBLE

"NO," said a voice close by. "You're not out of your head."

Turning in astonishment, Mr. Shnoo saw a fat little man perched on the fence. He was dressed all in red and had rosy cheeks and a white beard. He was smoking a little white pipe and nodding and smiling as he watched the reindeer spinning over head.

"Why, you're..." began Mr. Shnoo.

"S. Claus," said the little fat man. "From the North Pole."

Mr. Shnoo nearly toppled over with surprise. "You mean — Santa Claus?"

"The same," said the little fat man. He sucked at his pipe and blew out a cloud of smoke that almost hid him from sight. When he appeared again he was off the fence and standing beside Mr. Shnoo. "The reindeer are magnificent," he said. "You must be very proud."

"But I don't understand," said Mr. Shnoo. "When I left them tonight they couldn't fly at all. I've worked with them for days and days with no success at all. To tell you the truth, I had given up hoping." He looked up in wonder as the deer did a triple somersault through the stars and Horace, the leader, carried away by the sheer joy of it all, finished off with a full gainer layout and a swan dive besides.

"Pshaw!" said Santa. "Getting them to fly was nothing." He reached into a little bag he carried over his back and pulled out a small blue jar. "Flying pills," he said. "Very useful things to have. I took the liberty of giving one to each of the deer. To Horace I gave two because he seemed a bit down in the mouth."

"This may have been a mistake," he added as Horace suddenly swooped low and buzzed Mr. Shnoo's head.

"My word!" cried Mr. Shnoo, ducking out of the way. "What wonderful pills! Do you suppose you might leave me some? Just think what a zoo I would have!"

He had a sudden vision of Molly, the hippopotamus, and Henrietta, the elephant, light as feather pillows, sailing through the air.

Santa shook his head. "Wouldn't do at all," he said. "Every creature would be flying off and the whole nature of things would be turned topsy turvy."

Mr. Shnoo had to admit this was so. "Although," he said longingly, "it would be a wonderful thing to make all the animals in the zoo as happy as Horace."

"Your animals are happy," said Santa. "I have never seen so happy a zoo."

"It is not mine yet," said Mr. Shnoo. "I must pay 1,000 gold pieces before Christmas Day or I shall lose it. However, I am not worried as I hope to have the thousand in good time."

He told Santa how the Queen was inspecting all the zoos in the kingdom and was going to make an award to the finest one.

"I think she will like Shnoo's Zoo," said he. "Then I shall pay off Crookshank and the zoo will be mine."

Santa nodded. Then he said, "Day is breaking. I had better be off. I'd much rather stay here for I dearly love a zoo but I suppose there's work aplenty waiting for me at home."

He placed his fingers in his mouth and whistled. The flying deer wheeled about and coasted back to earth.

"I'll leave them here for the Queen to see," said Santa. "I'll be back for them on Christmas Eve."

As he spoke there came a terrible sound. Somewhere an animal roared in pain.

"It's one of the bears!" cried Mr. Shnoo. "Oh, goodness me!"

He turned on his heels and rushed away with Santa beside him.

Horace finished off with a full gainer.

The Story Behind The Book

THE SAND PEBBLES

By Richard McKenna

An exciting and powerful first novel, "The Sand Pebbles," is the January selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club. Its author is Richard McKenna, a 49-year-old sailor who has spent much of his adult life as an enlisted man in the U.S. Navy in the Far East. Drawing upon his peculiar background, Mr. McKenna tells an engrossing story with an unfamiliar but important theme: The emergence in the 1920s of modern China.

In plot and characterization "The Sand Pebbles" may remind readers of "The Caine Mutiny," though its canvas is much broader.

WON HARPER PRIZE

After it was chosen by the Book-of-the-Month Club's Editorial Board, it won the $10,000 Harper Prize, was purchased by a large film company for a reported $400,000, and was acquired by the Saturday Evening Post for serialization.

The "Sand Pebbles" are the crew of a U.S. gunboat, the San Pablo. The San Pablo, a relic of the Spanish-American War, patrols the far reaches of Hunan Province along the Yangtze River, "showing the flag" and protecting American lives and property from roving bandits and unscrupulous warlords.

One member of the crew is Jake Holman, a tough, independent first-class machinist's mate who has already spent six years on the China Station when he is assigned to the San Pablo.

LOOKED LIKE HOUSE

"Hello, ship," says Jake Holman softly when he first sees her. "She looked stubby and blocky and topheavy down there at the edge of the black, rolling river, and she was all moon-white except for her slender black smokestack that rose very high, high as her two masts. Four guy wires slanted down from the stack like streamers from a Maypole. She had a stubby, shielded gun on her open bow and a doubled, man-high hand steering wheel on her open fantail aft, but in between she looked more like a house than a ship."

Jake belongs to the "black gang" whose responsibility is the engine room, the furnace room, the bilges. He loves the smell of grease and oil and coal grime; he has only contempt for the elaborate formality of the "boatdeck" navy. At first he finds it difficult to fit in among the easygoing Sand Pebbles, who depend upon an established gang of Chinese coolies aboard to do the light work, like showing their faces and washing their clothes, and the heavy work, like keeping the engines fired.

But duty aboard the San Pablo has its compensations. As Burgoyne, a bearded, tattooed water-tender, tells Jake, "She ain't much on liberty, but she's sure enough a home and a feeder."

BEFRIENDS COOLIE

Jake becomes deeply involved with Burgoyne and a beautiful Chinese girl, Mally. He also befriends Po-han, an illiterate but ambitious coolie, who longs to understand how the magic of steam works. In a brilliant scene, worthy of Kipling, Holman teaches Po-han some of the facts of the machine age, despite the resentment of the coolie boss and his own shipmates.

Finally, Jake meets Shirley Eckert, a young American missionary who is new in China. Shirley's mission deplors the presence of all foreign gunboats in Chinese territorial waters, blaming them for the hostility and suspicion encountered among the Chinese.

Then, after a few revolutionary months, the Sand Pebbles find themselves facing a social storm as perilous as the typhoon that struck the USS Caine. China's multimillions, led by Chiang Kai-shek and helped by Russian soldiers and technicians, begin to rise with that awesome collective force which only Oriental mass populations can exert. They sweep away their petty local warlords like decayed logs blocking a stream; they rebel against most favored nation treaty rights and against special privileges for certain foreigners — privileges enforced by American, British and Japanese gunboats.

COOLIES REBEL

The San Pablo coolies rebel or are intimidated to decamp. The whole vast once-pacific land of China becomes a hostile territory, filled with hate and curses and thrown filth and stealthy bullets for the foreign devils.

How Jake and the other Sand Pebbles, or coolies like Po-han, or American missionaries like the ingenuous Shirley Eckert face this ordeal is the main theme of Mr. McKenna's lusty and absorbing story.

Born to impoverished parents in a small desert town in Idaho, Richard McKenna joined the Navy at 18 during the Depression. He did not attend college until after his retirement in 1953. At the age of 40, he entered the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and spent through courses in literature, science and anthropology in three years, making straight A's and winning election to Phi Beta Kappa.

His early short stories were bought by the Saturday Evening Post, Argosy and other magazines. Meanwhile he read, researched and remembered, in order to organize and write "The Sand Pebbles." Today he is busy on his next book in the house on the edge of Chapel Hill where he and his wife, the former Eva May Grice, now make their home.

FINCH SEEKS A NEW TRIAL

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An appellate court is studying a request for a fourth trial for Dr. Bernard Finch and his onetime paramour, Carol Tregoff.

The pair were convicted 20 months ago in the fatal shooting of Finch's wife, Barbara, 36.

Finch, 44, is serving life in San Quentin for first-degree murder. Miss Tregoff, 26, is under a lesser sentence for second-degree murder at Corona State Institution for Women.

They were convicted in their trial.

Attorneys argued Tuesday before the 2nd District Court of Appeal that handling of the jury in the second trial precluded favorable verdicts. The third, attorneys said, placed the pair in double jeopardy.

The lawyers also claimed Miss Tregoff's testimony during the preliminary hearing, before she was arrested or charged, violated her constitutional rights.

Mrs. Finch was shot to death July 18, 1959, at the Finch home in West Covina, Calif.

CHIGGERS ARE MITES

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chiggers are the larval forms of one family of mites.

Repellents applied to sock tops and elsewhere in accordance with directions are very effective in preventing chigger bites.

Children with neglected hearing problems repeat grades four times as often as children with normal hearing, according to the Hearing Aid Industry Conference.

Governors Hold Fire As U.S. Proposes Combat Strength For Fewer National Guards

By LARRY OSIUS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Governors held their fire for the most part as the Pentagon unveiled its program designed to get more ready-to-go combat punch into fewer National Guard and Army Reserve units.

An outcry had been predicted by some. It still may come. But Tuesday's announcement by the Defense Department drew only a request by Gov. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington that his colleagues withhold approval of the National Guard proposals until after a Pentagon meeting with state adjutants general next Monday.

OPPOSES ABOLITION
Rosellini, chairman of the National Governor's Conference, said he personally opposes abolition of National Guard units in his state. He urged other governors to wait until after a special committee of the conference looks into the matter after Monday's meeting.

The shakeup, in the works for eight months or more, will build reserve strength "far greater than anything we have known in the past," Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in announcing it.

The order goes into effect automatically for Army Reserve units. Approval by governors is needed for any changes in the National Guard during peacetime.

In brief, the Pentagon proposes: Abolishing four Army Reserve and four National Guard divisions plus a net of 731 smaller units it considers out of date.

REASSIGNMENTS
Placing most of the men from the abolished units into 11 new brigades, new support units, and six high priority National Guard divisions. The last would be an Masses. St. Joseph's High School Glee Club under the direction of Rev. David W. Shaum is putting the finishing touches on its Christmas program December 16 at 4 p.m. in the school auditorium. The Three Kings will be portrayed by Gene Lingg, Theodore Knox and Gary Miller. The Nativity scene will be presented and Christmas carols will be sung by the chorus. Tickets are $1 and the public is invited to attend.

Rita Remavege, Frances Hardman and Mr. and Mrs. Regis Miller attended the candlelight capping services held at Johns Hopkins Hospital Monday evening. The Millers' daughter, Pamela, received her nurse's cap during the ceremonies.

Miss Margaret Ellen Marshall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall, was the recipient of a $50 award for her essay on Amelia Earhart. The contest is televised every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock over WBAL-TV. Miss Marshall's biography now becomes eligible for entry in the grand prize contest of $500. Miss Marshall's sister, Ann Frances, won $50 for her biography on Theodore Roosevelt.

MAN SHOOT AT HOFFA WITH A PELLET GUN

By GAVIN SCOTT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Washington, D.C., laborer, who said he "had a vision" that told him to shoot Teamsters President James R. Hoffa dashed into U.S. District Court Wednesday and fired several pellets from an air pistol at the stocky labor leader.

Hoffa, being tried on a $1 million conspiracy charge, suffered only pellet marks on the back and left arm.

U.S. Marshal Elmer Disspayne identified the gunman as Warren Swanson, a laborer from Washington who arrived here only Tuesday. Disspayne said Swanson told him he did not know Hoffa but added:

WAS MAULED
"I had a vision a month ago that told me to do it."

Swanson, bruised and bloody from a mauling he received from marshals and Teamsters Union spectators, was taken to a hospital for treatment. His condition was undetermined immediately. The outburst spread excitement in the courtroom. Hoffa was not injured. "I saw the gun," Hoffa said. "I knocked him down." Hoffa said he saw the tall slender man approaching and that the man was aiming a pellet gun at him.

"I ducked," Hoffa said. "I saw it was coming and I'm all right and I'm not hurt. "It was some jerk with a pellet gun."

BEATEN, SUBDUED

The incident occurred while U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller was on the bench but while the jury was out of the room. The gunman came through the rear door of the small walnut-paneled courtroom, and walked down the aisle to a swinging gate separating spectators from lawyers and principals in the trial.

He lunged through the gate, pulled the weapon from beneath his coat and headed toward Hoffa, seated at the defense table.

Three defense lawyers ducked to the floor as the man opened fire. The shots made small popping sounds.

FIGHT RESULTS

Hoffa ducked, then lunged at the man and knocked him to the floor. Several marshals piled on top of the assailant and several spectators ran through the swinging gate and started kicking the man. The spectators withdrew at Hoffa's insistence. U.S. Marshal Elmer Disspayne led the man, blood streaming from his head and face, from the courtroom and would not permit newsroom to question him. Judge Miller, who watched the drama unfold, ordered a recess and told the marshals that he wanted a full and complete report of the incident. There were approximately 50 or 60 spectators in the courtroom at the time. They were listening to attorneys argue whether certain testimony in the $1 million conspiracy trial should be continued.

HOFFA'S WIFE GIVES AID TO UNION LEADER

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — Teamster president James R. Hoffa is readying a bombshell to toss into the ranks of his political detractors.

She is blonde and shapely, and she is also his wife.

Until recent months, Josephine Hoffa had remained in the background, a mother devoted to rearing the son and daughter of an extraordinarily busy man battling his way up the ranks of unionism since their romance began on a picket line 25 years ago.

SHE'S BACK IN TRIM

Now she is spearheading DRIVE, which stands for Democratic, Republican, Independent, and Voter Education and is sponsored by the Teamsters Union. Once seldom seen at public functions, she now is stumping the country, preaching what she and Jimmy consider a gospel of facts and organizing teamster wives into DRIVE units.

Josephine barely had got her speaking fuse lit, when an operation knocked her off the platform in late 1961. Now she's back in trim and booking dates all over, strongly built 5-foot-5½ husband, Josephine Hoffa, a classic-nosed, beige-blond of 5-foot-1½, hasn't managed to develop Jimmy's thick skin to barbs of congressional investigators, rival unionists and a variety of other critics of his and the operation of his 1½ million-member union.

SAYS JIMMY'S DEDICATED

"People who say bad things about him just don't know Jimmy," she told a reporter in her first interview. "He is a dedicated man, but he also is a kindly man. What is said sometimes hurts, especially when you are in love with the man and know it isn't the truth."

"But I try to follow his advice: 'Never look behind. Always look ahead.' That's why I didn't watch television when he was on the stand (at session of Sen. John McClellan's committee in 1957)."

"If those who criticize could just be at a (teamsters) meeting where old folks who remember how things used to be for working people come up and shake his hand."

POLITICAL UNIT
DRIVE corresponds to COPE (Committee On Political Education) of the AFL-CIO. The latter expelled Hoffa's Teamsters on charges of corruption in the fall of 1957. Since the Teamsters have gone their way independently.

DRIVE stresses voter registration and voting on election day. It organizes wives of Teamsters into auxiliaries and supplies them with information about voting records of politicians and pending legislation and how the union feels about both.

Josephine Hoffa's formal education ended in high school, as did her husband's, but her mind cuts through foliage to the trunk with incisiveness.

PIERCING EYES
She has a pair of brown eyes that can pierce like a dagger, but mostly sparkle with friendliness. She inherited them from her Warsaw-born, factory-worker father and her Polish-American mother. In polygenetic Detroit she is something of a rarity for her age of 43—she's Detroit born.

She vividly remembers the depression of the 1930's, "when I ate so much macaroni, I still can't stand to cook it, even when my kids, who like macaroni and tomatoes, ask for it."

It was in 1937 when she was helping to keep the macaroni pot boiling at home that Josephine Poszywak met James R. Hoffa—on a picket line outside Detroit's Durable Laundry, where she laundry-marked shirts and shook them out before they went on ironing machines.

ster ranks, and some fellow unionists went over to give Josephine and her fellow striking laundry workers some picketline support "for a decent wage and working condition." After that first day Jimmy Hoffa came back often.

"I guess," Josephine said, "it was love at first sight all right. But neither of us rushed things."

When Jimmy popped the question though, things happened quickly, as they always seem to with James Riddle Hoffa. It was Saturday morning. County offices were closed in Detroit.

HAD NO HONEYMOON

So off they went to Bolling Green, O., a Gretna Green just south of Toledo. They were Mr. and Mrs. and back home by Sunday morning.

"It was a fast honeymoon," she smiles. "I'm still waiting. Maybe now we can someday find the time for one."

Now, she might have added, that 23-year-old Barbara Ann is through Albion (Mich.) College and Mrs. Robert Crancer of Dallas, Tex., and 20-year-old James R. Jr. is a junior in business law and business administration at Michigan State University and away at school most of the time.

MODEST HOME

Portraits of Barbara and young Jimmy and Josephine (by Volpe of California) dominate the smallish, white, beige-carpeted living room of the house the Hoffas bought for $6,800 on Detroit's northwest side in 1939 and still call home. Today it would cost three times that.

Just beyond a living room archway is the dining room, and there is an air conditioner and a stereo hi-fi that goes almost constantly switching from muted rock 'n' roll all the way to semiclassics.

Home also is an apartment in The Towers in Washington, D. C., and a cottage on Michigan's Lake Orion, north of Pontiac.

STILL KEEPS HOUSE

And wherever the Hoffas are, Josephine presides at the cook-stove and does the housekeeping, usually beginning her day from 6 to 7 a.m. She personally whipped up lunch of Swiss steak and trimmings for a reporter and photographer who came to keep a mid-day interview date. She switched to customary blouse and slacks for that chore.

"Although we're on the go a lot now, I cook every chance I get and see that he gets a good supper," Mrs. Hoffa said, adding when a newsman asked if she kept a maid: "No. If a woman can't keep her own house there must be something wrong with her."

The Charles L. O'Briens (he's a Teamsters business agent and a Hoffa bodyguard in Detroit) live in the Hoffas' Detroit home — keeping a fire going and a bedroom always ready for Jimmy and Jo.

JOINS FISHERMEN

Josephine overcame a fear of water to enjoy with her husband his favorite relaxation — fishing.

And she happily recalls the day "we caught a whole boatload of king (mackerel) off Key West." She'll even dabble with him for blue gill in Lake Orion, and she's got a theory every wife ought to try to make hubby's hobby her hobby and enjoy it with him.

While Jimmy Hoffa fought rough and tough to the presidency of the Teamsters, he doesn't smoke or drink or swear Mrs. Hoffa says. But she isn't averse to a cocktail before lunch or dinner and admits to "forgetting my Catholic training" language on occasions when she sees and hears some of the things said about her husband. She also smokes.

She is Catholic. Both children

Mariner II Survives Harrowing Problems In Space Voyage To Venus

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Toward the end of next week, Mariner II, the earth's first space messenger to Venus, will complete its nearly 200-million-mile mission — and it promises to be a cliffhanger right to the end.

"The story of Mariner II is beginning to resemble 'The Perils of Pauline,'" said a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official not too long ago. And, indeed, the adventures of the 447-pound spacecraft resemble strongly those of the old silent movie heroine who each week emerged alive and triumphant from the most harrowing experiences.

LOCKED ON MOON

Only six days and little more than a million miles from its August 27 launch at Cape Canaveral, Mariner II first began throwing consternation into its watchers back on earth.

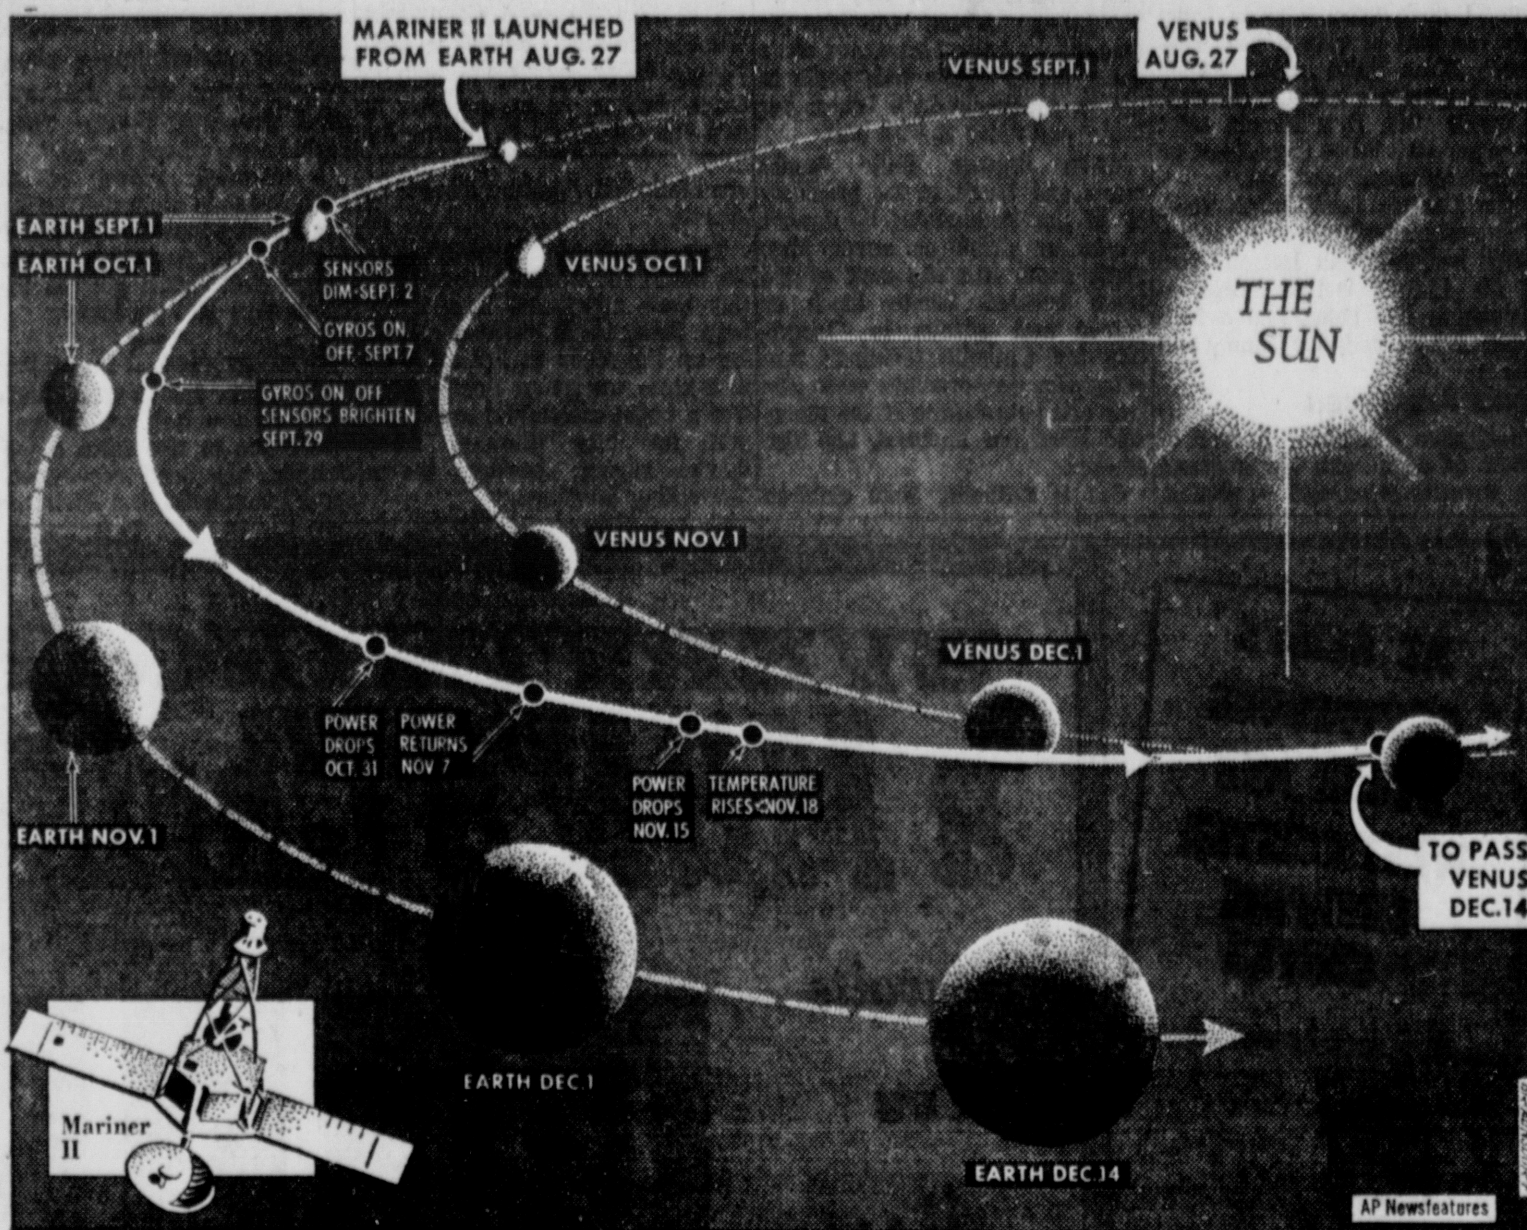

The spacecraft's sensors, which keep its antenna pointed at the earth, took such a dim view of its mother planet that watchers feared it had locked on the moon. Two days later, however, when controllers on earth began firing the mid-course rockets that would orient Mariner to earth and sun, it turned out that the sensors really were watching the earth.

On September 7, nearly two million miles from earth, the gyros that help control the pitch and roll of the craft unexpectedly came on — and then equally unexpectedly turned themselves off again.

ON AND OFF

The same thing happened again on September 23. The gyros went on and then off again. And, at the same time, the earth sensors brightened to the expected magnitude. This bit of capriciousness is still unexplained.

On October 31, almost 12 million miles from the earth, Mariner's power suddenly dropped and scientists suspected a short circuit in one of the solar panels.

A week later, the panel mysteriously came back to life. On November 15, it faded again. Then, along about November 18, scientists detected a temperature rise in the spacecraft's battery, leading to fears that the sealed battery might rupture just as Mariner reached the vicinity of Venus.

NEAR VENUS DEC. 14

Mariner II will hang from that cliff right down to the wire.

If everything goes as expected, Mariner will pass within 20,000 miles of Venus on December 14 and begin transmitting back to earth information on the cloud-veiled planet whose surface has never been seen.

At the time of transmission, Mariner will be about 36 million miles from the earth but it will have traveled nearly 200 million miles in chasing Venus as the planet revolved about the sun.

A Mariner success would be a major triumph for the United States in its race into space against the Soviet Union. It would be the first close inspection ever made of a planet.

The Soviets now have a spacecraft hurtling toward Mars, an opportunity that U.S. spacemen chose to pass up until the next favorable launch position in 1964. The Soviet craft is due to pass Mars next June.

Thus, a failure by Mariner II in its Venus pass could open the door for another Soviet first in space.

GEN. FRANK IS UNHAPPY OVER GUARD SHAKEUP

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Maj. Gen. J. Calvin Frank says he is very disappointed in the Defense Department order reorganizing and trimming down Pennsylvania's 79th Division, which he commands.

The 79th—known as the Cross of Lorraine Division—now is composed of some 8,000 Reservists, mostly from Pennsylvania but with some Maryland and Delaware units. It is one of four Reserve and four National Guard divisions ordered eliminated Tuesday.

Instead of becoming a streamlined division — as Gen. Frank hoped—it will be chopped into a brigade, to be known as the 157th, with a complement of 3,312 men headquarters in nearby Upper Darby.

MEN ARE UPSET

Frank said he and his men are upset "because we did not understand that we would be reorganized into the new type division and not realigned."

Where will the other 5,000 men go? Frank said they will be able to stay in the Army Reserve for at least a year, while the reorganization is going on. Then, he added, they will have the option of resigning or joining one of many new so-called "service units" — such as hospital, quartermaster, petroleum—created by the shake-up.

"It's going to necessitate a lot of adjustment for individuals," said Frank, adding that there will be some "who won't be able to get assignments."

RETIRES SUNDAY

The brigade's headquarters will be in the Keystone Armory at 7220 Chester Pike, in Upper Darby. The division's headquarters now are in the armory.

New Kingsley Play Is Unusual Drama

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidney Kingsley calls his first play in eight years an unusual offering for Broadway.

"This is an examination of our contemporary situation," says the Pulitzer Prize dramatist. "When you look around these days it's hard to find a contemporary play, except for the comedies."

A cast of 30 is required, with all performers on stage throughout the drama.

DRAMATIC ANTHOLOGY NEXT SEASON

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The most positive, stimulating news to emerge from network television in many a month is that NBC next season will sponsor a weekly dramatic anthology series of original dramas performed by a repertory company.

Richard Boone, a skillful actor who for the past six years has been getting bored (and rich) in CBS' "Have Gun, Will Travel" will be host and weekly performer.

Frank retires Sunday and the brigade will be commanded by a colonel.

On the National Guard level, the Defense Department has requested Pennsylvania to reduce its Army National Guard from 171 to 153 units, while the authorized strength will continue at slightly under 18,000 officers and men, said state Adj. Gen. Malcolm Hay.

Gov. David L. Lawrence said he would take a couple days to analyze the reorganization before commenting on it.

The 79th division was activated at Ft. Meade, Md., in 1917.

er in the series. Sometimes he will star, other times he will play the butler.

The regular company will be carefully chosen with the idea of making it a tight, smooth team under executive producer Mac-Benoff, a television and stage writer.

Like icing to a good cake, Clifford Odets will serve as editor and sometimes writer of the scripts. Odets has never been involved in a television series before, but is a playwright with eminent credits, including "Waiting for Lefty," "Golden Boy" and "The Country Girl."

The series, to kick off next September, is a package by the Goodson-Todman organization, which has been so successful with its series of television game shows but which has been hankering to get into the area of drama. It will be filmed in Hollywood.

Benoff believes that by developing a working unit of actors, each one capable of playing a lead one week and a minor character the next, and by limiting the number of directors (he hopes to have no more than two) that he can produce something vital and meaty. The prospect almost makes up for NBC's decision-announced almost sheepishly—to fill two Monday night hours the rest of this season with re-runs of six-and seven-year-old movies.

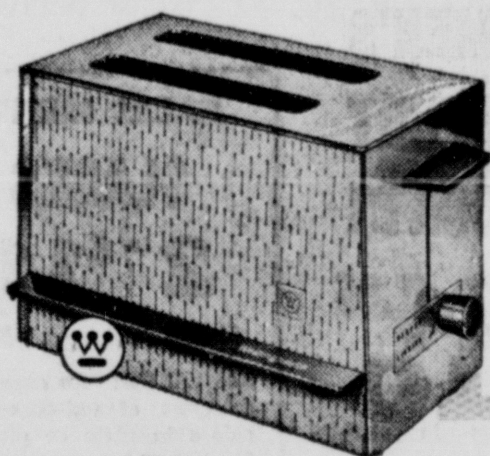

NBC's "Don't Call Me Charlie," will, as anticipated, be canceled late in January and its Friday night spot be taken by "The Price Is Right," currently suffering a drop in audience pitted against CBS' Monday night comedy powerhouse.

PRESSURE IN CUBA

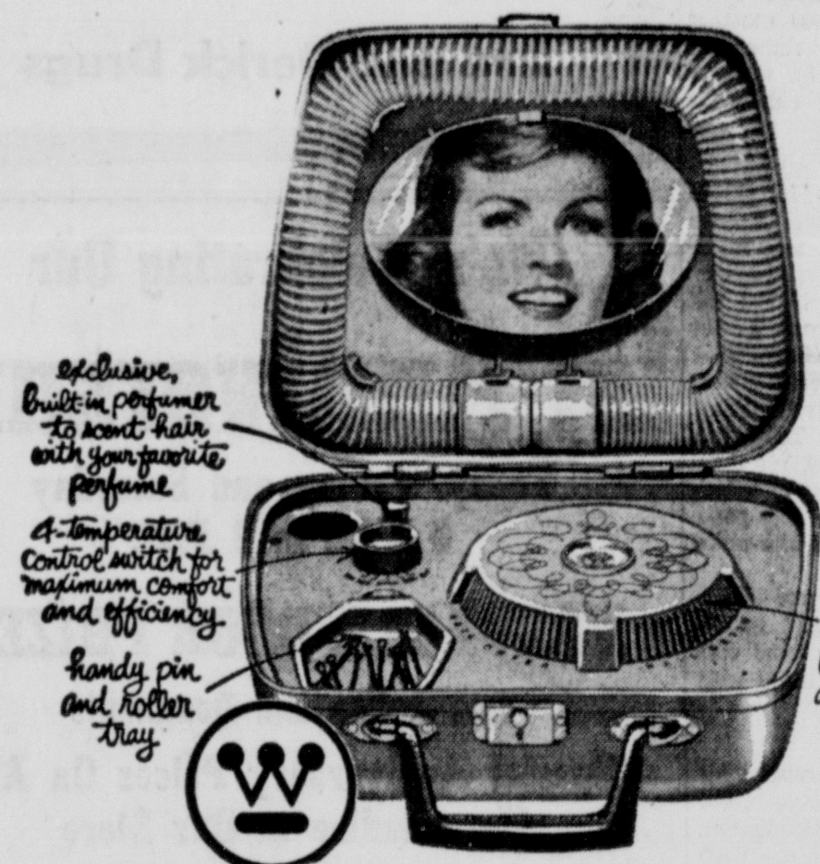

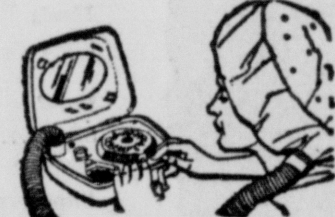

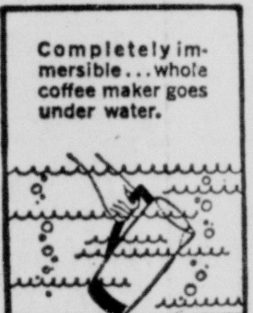

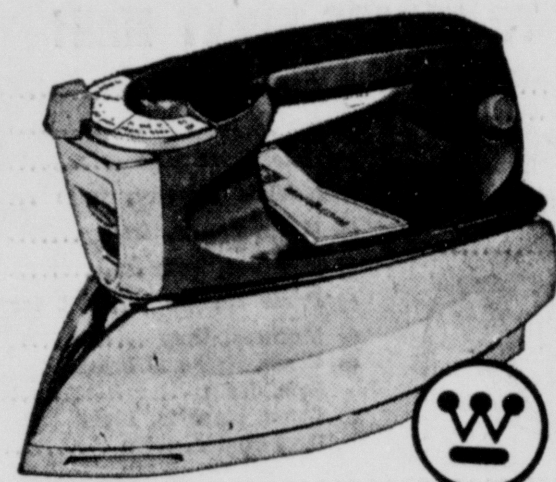

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The Cuban government has decreed the nationalization of privately owned clothing, shoe and hardware stores, Havana radio said Wednesday.

The broadcast, monitored here, said small commercial enterprises managed and attended solely by their owners or relatives would be excluded.

Unless Care Is Used, Xmas Trees Can Create Tragedy

More than 50 million American families in the next few days will be buying Christmas trees and decorating them for the holiday season.

Unless care is taken, this happy symbol of the holiday season can bring tragedy, warns the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

These suggestions are offered by the board to keep your Christmas tree firesafe:

1—When you buy a Christmas tree, choose one which appears fresh. Before you buy the tree, run your hand over the needles to make sure they are firmly attached. If needles fall when brushed, the tree is dry and you should select another one.

KEEP IT OUTDOORS

2—When you get the tree home, keep it outdoors until you are ready to decorate it. You can keep it fresh by standing it in a pail of water.

3—You should wait until just before Christmas before setting up the tree.

4—You should place the tree in the coolest part of the room, away from radiators, heaters and the fireplace. This will keep the tree from drying, and reduce the chance of fire.

5—Your Christmas tree stand should be of the type equipped with a water container in which the trunk can rest. Fresh trees will "drink" a sizable amount of water, and you should fill the water container daily.

6—Only flameproof decorations should be used on the tree—those made of glass, metal or fire-resistant material.

CHECK LIGHT STRINGS

7—Use only electric lights to illuminate the tree and be sure to check light strings before placing them on the branches. Those with frayed wires should be thrown away. If you buy a new set, select a type that bears the Underwriters Laboratories label.

8—The switch controlling the tree lights should be some distance from the tree.

9—Electric trains — part of Christmas in many homes — should be set up away from the tree. Sparks from toy trains could be fire hazards.

10—Lights on Christmas trees always should be turned off when everyone is away from home.

11—Check the tree frequently for dryness. In particular, check tree needles near lights. If they have started to turn brittle, change the position of the lights.

12—When needles become so dry they start falling, take the tree down at once and put it outdoors.

13—When Christmas presents are opened, the gift wrappings you intend to keep should be folded and put away. Other paper, rib-

A Lovelier You

By MARY SUE MILLER
AT HOME WITH FASHION.
The favorite evening-at-home costume for Mrs. America is still a gay skirt with a wardrobe of tops—a red velvet or mohair skirt, for instance, teamed with a black sweater, a pink silk blouse or a wild-print shirt.

As in all good fashions, though, there is a subtle progression in these. The newsy skirt is longer, to the ankle or floor. The top is apt to be a relaxed pullover, rather than a tuck-in. Accessorizing is definitely special. Slippers and boots are zany, jewelry is splashier.

For the more casual home girl, pants remain the favored leisure uniform. But their cut and fabric is a far cry from daytime jeans. The look is plush as can be.

In fact, all the best in at-homes reflect a feeling of luxury without sacrifice to ease. Even the most elegant long crepe dinner pajamas and brocade shifts, now the darlings of the avant-garde, are superbly at ease.

However, the most vital point about fireside clothes transcends the fashion aspect. In this workaday world, dressing especially for home evening pays a high compliment to your family and guests. You are so nice to come home to or to visit.

MOST BECOMING LINES

And as a boost to confidence in your feminine appeal, a charming at-home costume works wonders. Even on solitary evenings! The private life of a lovely filters into her public appearances.

Do you know in detail what lines in clothing enhance your good points and play down the not-so-good? The right lines do both and so make a fine figure of a woman! How it's done is told in our leaflet, "YOUR MOST BECOMING LINES." Advice is individual and includes silhouettes, necklines, shoulders, sleeves, belts, trimmings. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller, Box 158, The Gettysburg Times, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin.

1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup shredded coconut
1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts

With a pastry blender, blend together the butter and 1/4 cup flour until particles are fine; pat or spread over bottom of ungreased cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven about 10 minutes — do not brown; remove from oven. Stir together the remaining 1/4 cup flour, baking powder and salt. Beat the egg until thick and ivory colored; gradually beat in brown sugar, then vanilla, fold in flour mixture, then coconut and walnuts. Spread over baked mixture and return to slow oven until firm and light brown — about 30 minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool. Cut in large squares in pan and remove very carefully with a wide spatula. Serve with whipped cream.

SPACE BOOTHS HIT AT FAIR

SEATTLE (AP) — The people who ran the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Pavilion at the World's Fair think America has an abundant interest in science.

And they don't think it's going to stop at that. They figure it'll blossom and spread greatly in another generation.

Through October 2, with about three weeks left of the fair, 2,156,668 visitors had peered at the NASA exhibits — the capsule John Glenn rode around the earth, the exact replica of Mariner II, which is on its way to Venus, and dozens of other examples of the nation's scientific ventures into space.

"The young folks especially seem to have a respect for the space age and the people who are doing things in it," said Bob Button, NASA information man. "For instance, they admire the astronauts like the people of a generation ago admired airplane pilots — the men who wore the silver wings.

"And not only do these youngsters admire the people in space, they even admire the hardware — the impersonal rockets.

"As for the older people, although many may not have an understanding for science, they have a healthy respect for it. There is an awe shown."

Button figured an average of about 22,000 people a day visited the space show during the peak months of July and August. And after school started attendance about 10,000 on week days and maybe double that on weekends.

He said figures show it was the second most popular display on the fairgrounds.

In top place in popularity was the United States Science Pavilion.

NEED TO RELAX TENSION PAINS

By CAROL JOHNSON
IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Feel an ache between your shoulder-blades, tightness in your arms, a burning sensation in your eyes, or an over-all tired feeling?

Chances are those are signs of tension — that result of modern living with too much pressure for too much work in too short a time.

Most Americans don't know how to relax, even when they have the time, says a physical education professor at the State University of Iowa. And, continues Dr. Margaret Fox, the collapse-in-a-chair idea of relaxation doesn't help in learning to cope with tension.

RELAX MUSCLES

Rather than the absence of concentration often associated with relaxation, Dr. Fox says the process requires a conscious effort to "let go." It's this process that she teaches in a course for girls with health problems that limit their physical activity.

The first step in the course is recognizing tensions in various muscles.

The next — and difficult part — is to concentrate on relaxing one part of the body after the other, including arms, legs and on up to the forehead and eyes. Dr. Fox says it takes six to eight class sessions before the students even get the feeling of deliberate relaxation.

RECOGNIZE TENSION

Dr. Fox says she has taught about 200 coeds in the 10 years Iowa has offered the course. "They are most enthusiastic," she says of the students. "They go home and try to teach their families."

The instruction would be desirable for all students and for adults as well, Dr. Fox comments, but as yet there aren't enough teachers to offer the course on a broader basis. But there are general principals which can help the secretary with her concentration on typing, the businessman who drives long distances, and others whose work leads to muscle tightness and tension.

Again, the first rule is recognizing tension. For example, rest one arm on a table, then raise the forearm off the surface and hold it until you feel the tightness — that's tension.

Dr. Fox says that working under pressure is particularly tiring because the stimulation spreads to muscles not involved in the actual job. For example, a typist concentrating on an important piece of work may move her mouth, tighten her face muscles or clench her toes.

Dr. Fox says, "The secret of making your muscles work for you instead of against you rests in switching to idling speed all those you don't need in whatever you are doing all through the day."

In the language of her course, Dr. Fox uses the term differential relaxation, meaning a deliberate effort to relax parts of the body which aren't being used in a particular job — such as keeping legs relaxed while sitting at a desk or refraining from taking a vise-like grip on the steering wheel.

State Museum Has Wainwright Whip

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Hair from the tail of a favorite mount of the late Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, made into a fancy riding whip by an Army sergeant, is now on display in the Kansas State Museum.

Back in the 1930s Wainwright, then a colonel, was master of the hunt at the famed Cavalry School at Fort Riley near Junction City, Kan. In charge of the hounds was a technical sergeant, Alonzo Teasley.

Teasley, an expert leather worker, made a whip handle and then fashioned on it nearly 22 inches of horse's hair, all taken from Wainwright's mount.

Recently Teasley died and his administrator presented the whip to the museum. With it went a picture of Teasley and his colonel who later became Gen. Wainwright, hero of Corregidor in World War II.

Males Write Best For Women's Roles

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of Broadway leading ladies agree that men write better feminine roles than women.

Colleen Dewhurst expressed belief this is "because they are inclined to like women better than other women do." Wendy Hiller pointed out, however, that "even an antifeminist such as August Strindberg wrote good parts."

"Perhaps it is because they have a slightly more generous attitude," said Margaret Leighton. "And when they do understand a woman, they understand better than another woman can."

Endorsing the viewpoint were Olivia de Havilland and Lillian Roth, who said William Inge had provided the best roles of all. The comments were made at a symposium conducted by the Drama Desk, an organization of theatrical writers.

BOYLE'S Grab Bag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Now is the fat man's finest hour.

A fat man leads a mixed-up life in our calorie-conscious civilization.

For five weeks a year he is a hero—the king of the hill. The rest of the year he is a dumpy clown, a figure—an over-sized figure—of ridicule to his skinny inferiors.

This is the season—between Thanksgiving Day and New Year—that separates the fat men from the lean boys.

This is the brief season when everybody truly loves a fat man because he looks like those two symbols of harvest and human kindness—the pumpkin and Santa Claus.

PERFECT IMAGE

It makes everybody happy even to see a fat man come over their horizon like a waddling cloud. He is in the flesh so perfect an image of the joyous spirit of the time.

Even strangers come up to the fat man and poke a playful finger in his chubby stomach and say things like:

"There's a lot of good living in there, eh?"

"Better than money in the bank, isn't it?"

"Well, you're at least one fellow who can take it with him, aren't you?"

The fat man is inundated with invitations to seasonal festivities of every kind. He becomes the life of every party. For what kind of a party is it around Christmas that doesn't have a jolly fat man there, booming with laughter?

It makes other people feel good just to see the fat man eat and drink—living life up the way mankind feels it ought to all year round in a feast of endless plenty.

Unused to appreciation, the fat man falls for this accolade like a hungry kid turned loose in a store full of all-day suckers.

He bellies up to the wassail bowl and drinks mightily. He spills more calories on his necktie at lunch than the average man consumes in a day. He buffets the buffet for a third huge helping as the other guests gaily urge him on with remarks like, "Come on, have another piece of mince pie," and "My, doesn't it to your soul good to see someone get such real pleasure out of living?"

"UNPAID BILLS"

On New Year's Day, facing a mountain of unpaid bills and worn out by intemperate indulgence, people suddenly weary of Santa Claus and the holiday mood.

And who do they turn on? Why, the fat man. They blame him for their own orgies. He becomes the scapegoat for all.

They point scornful fingers at the bounteous stomach they so lately praised and say: "Ugh!"

All at once nobody loves the fat man. He doesn't have a friend in the world, not even himself. And all he did was try to please a fickle public.

So enjoy yourself now, fat man—it won't last!

To give that gravy extra flavor, add cooked diced carrots, onion, celery and white turnip. Good over hot beef sandwiches.

Weeds Difficult To Domesticate

GUELPH, Ont. (AP)—Since it established a weed garden to aid in studies of weeds, the botany department of Ontario Agricultural College has found some weeds are harder to grow than other plants.

Devised by Dr. C. M. Switzer, the department's authority on weeds, the garden gives visitors an opportunity to see properly identified weeds growing in familiar surroundings. It is also used by OCA students taking weed identification courses.

Dr. Switzer said farmers and gardeners might not believe it, but certain types of weeds are hard to grow.
